Grave error

Dear Editor:

At a discussion of the appeals process following questions by Jim Holliday at the city council meeting on Nov. 3, Mayor Eastwood stated that he would not permit the council to be a "rubber stamp."

Of course not, Mr. Mayor. Rubber stamping is a mindless process in which the merits or demerits of a given issue are not considered. It is the contention of the Carmel Resident's Association that the city council should concur in any decision of the planning commission which is based upon reason and compliance with the municipal code. If such is not the case, the decision should be overturned. That is not being a rubber stamp!

It is our further contention that the decision of the council to amend the General Plan by revising its R-1 Land Use provisions is a grave error. This amendment was adopted by the council in order to permit the construction of a commercial parking garage in an area behind the Pine Inn, an area now zoned as residential. This action is in contravention of Ordinance No. 96, the preamble to the charter of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea. This ordinance states clearly that our city is predominately a residential city and that "business and commerce have in the past, are now, and are proposed to be in the future subordinated to its residential character."

Moreover, this action is in contravention of Mayor Eastwood's promise made during the 1986 mayoral campaign to abide by the provisions of the preamble. Changing the municipal code to permit construction of a commercial parking garage in an area zoned as residential (R-1) is just simply precedent. It is unfortunate that the mayor and three council members did not adopt the excellent reasoning and the position of Councilman Jim Wright, the only dissenting vote. His was a vote most properly cast.

Winning by default

Dear Editor:

Douglas Ginsberg had admitted to having used marijuana on occasion in his salad days. Horrors! Now, if we can only get him to own up that he once spied on the girls' locker room in high school, or swiped cherries from a neighbor's tree, he's a goner for sure.

The lummock contingent may, as usual, pooh-pooh any and all considerations of judicial shenanigans or conflict of interest, but there's no way most of them are going to forgive such sinister goings-on as convivially puffing on pot. Why, that's almost as bad as shaking hands with Jesse Jackson.

It is ironic to contemplate that the latest shining champion of the Reaganoid version of Truth, Justice and the American Way might be hoisted on his own petard or stymied at the outset by the small mindedness of the retardates of the lunkhead right, before the other side gets a chance to unlimber any of the real issues at stake.

Well, if that's to be the way it's going to be, then so be it. Winning by default is still winning. A TKO is no less decisive than going down for the count. Bring on the next contender!

Assist our schools

Dear Editor:

In a few weeks, the Controller of the State of California will mail some 12 million rebate checks to eligible Californians, ranging from $32 to $236. This money is state tax dollars you paid in 1987.

Prior to taking action to rebate these funds, the governor and the Legislature debated what to do with it. These funds could very well have assisted our local schools which are in dire need of direct assistance. As California continues to grow, our support for education, at all levels, must continue to grow as well. Otherwise, we will find ourselves with a generation of young people ill prepared to meet the challenges of the turn of the century work place and national and international marketplace.

However, the California Constitution now contains an awkward formula (the so-called Gann Limit), which prohibits the state from spending funds beyond a certain limit, regardless of need.

Since the money is being sent back, you now have the power to decide where to use it. If you keep it (and itemized your last income tax return), then the federal government will count it as income and tax you. However, if you donate the rebate to a foundation, then it can be counted as a charitable contribution.

I want my tax dollars to stay here in the Monterey Bay area, to benefit our local schools. That is why I am urging everyone to join me in endorsing their rebate checks to the public school of their choice. (A list of public schools foundations is available by calling my district offices: Santa Cruz 425-1503, and Monterey 646-1980.)

California's future depends on the success of our schools. The success of our schools depends on you.

Thank you for taking time to read this. Now, please take the time to assist our schools.

Neglected problems

Dear Editor:

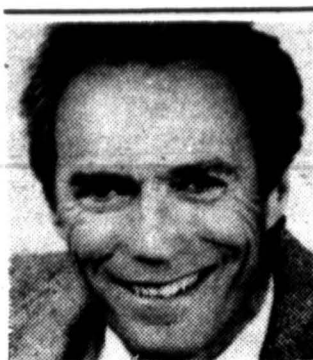

As our president has said: "We have lost control of our borders." One reason advanced for this happening is that insufficient money was allotted to protect those borders. As a result, there are enough Central Americans in L.A. County to start their own war. Some experts predict that by 1990, there will be 10 million cars in that county.

Our adventures in Nicaragua and the Persian Gulf may be justified but in the meantime we have neglected our problems here at home.

Fraud and corruption have erupted in organized religion, Wall Street and in the military-industrial complex. The defense industry has produced items like the flawed Sgt. York rifle and the Bradley Fighting Vehicle, which is supposedly amphibious and works fine until loaded with troops and equipment and pushed into the water — then it sinks.

There are always experts telling us what to worship and who to worship, but it seems to me that believing in a Supreme Being should be a completely personal matter. Just your very own business. If believing in such a being enables you to become a better person, a better parent and a better citizen, what in heaven's name is wrong with that?

MAYOR'S REPORT

By Clint Eastwood

Democracy when it suits you

AFTER THE Sept. 1 council meeting, Mr. Jim Holliday, president of the Carmel Residents' Association, wrote a guest editorial in the Carmel Pine Cone taking me to task for suppressing democracy by stifling debate.

This occurred when Mr. Skip Lloyd made a presentation questioning the language in the General Plan in regards to "incentives for residentially oriented businesses." Because Jean Grace and Mr. Lloyd were interpreting this particular citation differently, and because the General Plan has no index and no one could turn right to the citation, I suggested this matter could be discussed at a later date.

Since that time, Mrs. Grace admitted to the planning commission that she was quoting a different citation; and Mr. Lloyd wrote a letter to Planning Director Diane White, with copies to other city councilmembers, stating that this concern no longer existed, making Mr. Holliday's article moot after the fact. What is the old adage? "A little knowledge is a dangerous thing."

So you can imagine my shock, as well as that of other councilmembers and members of the audience when this same gentleman who accused me of suppressing democracy, stood at the last council meeting and suggested that the council not allow the two appeals pending, on the rationale that it sets a bad precedent to overturn the planning commission.

It is my opinion that every citizen has the right of appeal to its elected officials, and to deny this right would be a giant suppression of democracy. After all, in the case of Spencers Stationery, the planning commission bogged down on a 3-3 tie, and the city council voted unanimously to approve the appeal.

I don't mind criticism from the Carmel Residents' Association's Executive Committee; in fact I find it quite helpful. I happen to agree with their philosophy of enthusiastic participation in government and keeping the attendance up at the meetings — something that has been sadly lacking in past years. However, under this administration, attendance and participation at meetings has been higher than ever.

The council has received many complimentary letters; ironically one just last week from Mr. Holliday himself. In the meantime, he continues to write nothing but negatives in correspondence to his membership. Sure, it would far be less work for the council to rubber stamp the planning commission, but that would not accomplish the real objective of fairness to all citizens.

Controversial Handley property

R-4 zone issue coming up for renewed debate

By NANCY HILLS

THE CONTROVERSIAL Hayward Lumberyard site and the R-4 district is having a return engagement with the Carmel Planning Commission.

The commission will face a plethora of choices and not too many answers when confronted with what to do about zoning law changes in the R-4 district at 3 p.m., Wednesday, Nov. 18 in Carmel City Council Chambers.

The item could still be continued since the city council is in negotiation with Tom Handley for the purchase of the 53,900 square foot Hayward Lumberyard, the largest single piece of property in the R-4 zone.

The council was expected to have made a decision at its November meeting, but is still in the process of negotiation.

Handley's property, however, is just one portion of the district awaiting instructions from the city about what the zoning regulations will be in the R-4 so development plans can be completed.

The commission could remove the lumberyard site from the rezoning law and discuss an environmental impact report for the rezoned and zoning regulations for the rest of the district.

"My feeling is to go ahead with it and decide on the areas not affected by the Hayward Lumberyard sale," Carmel Planning Commission Chairman Ken White said.

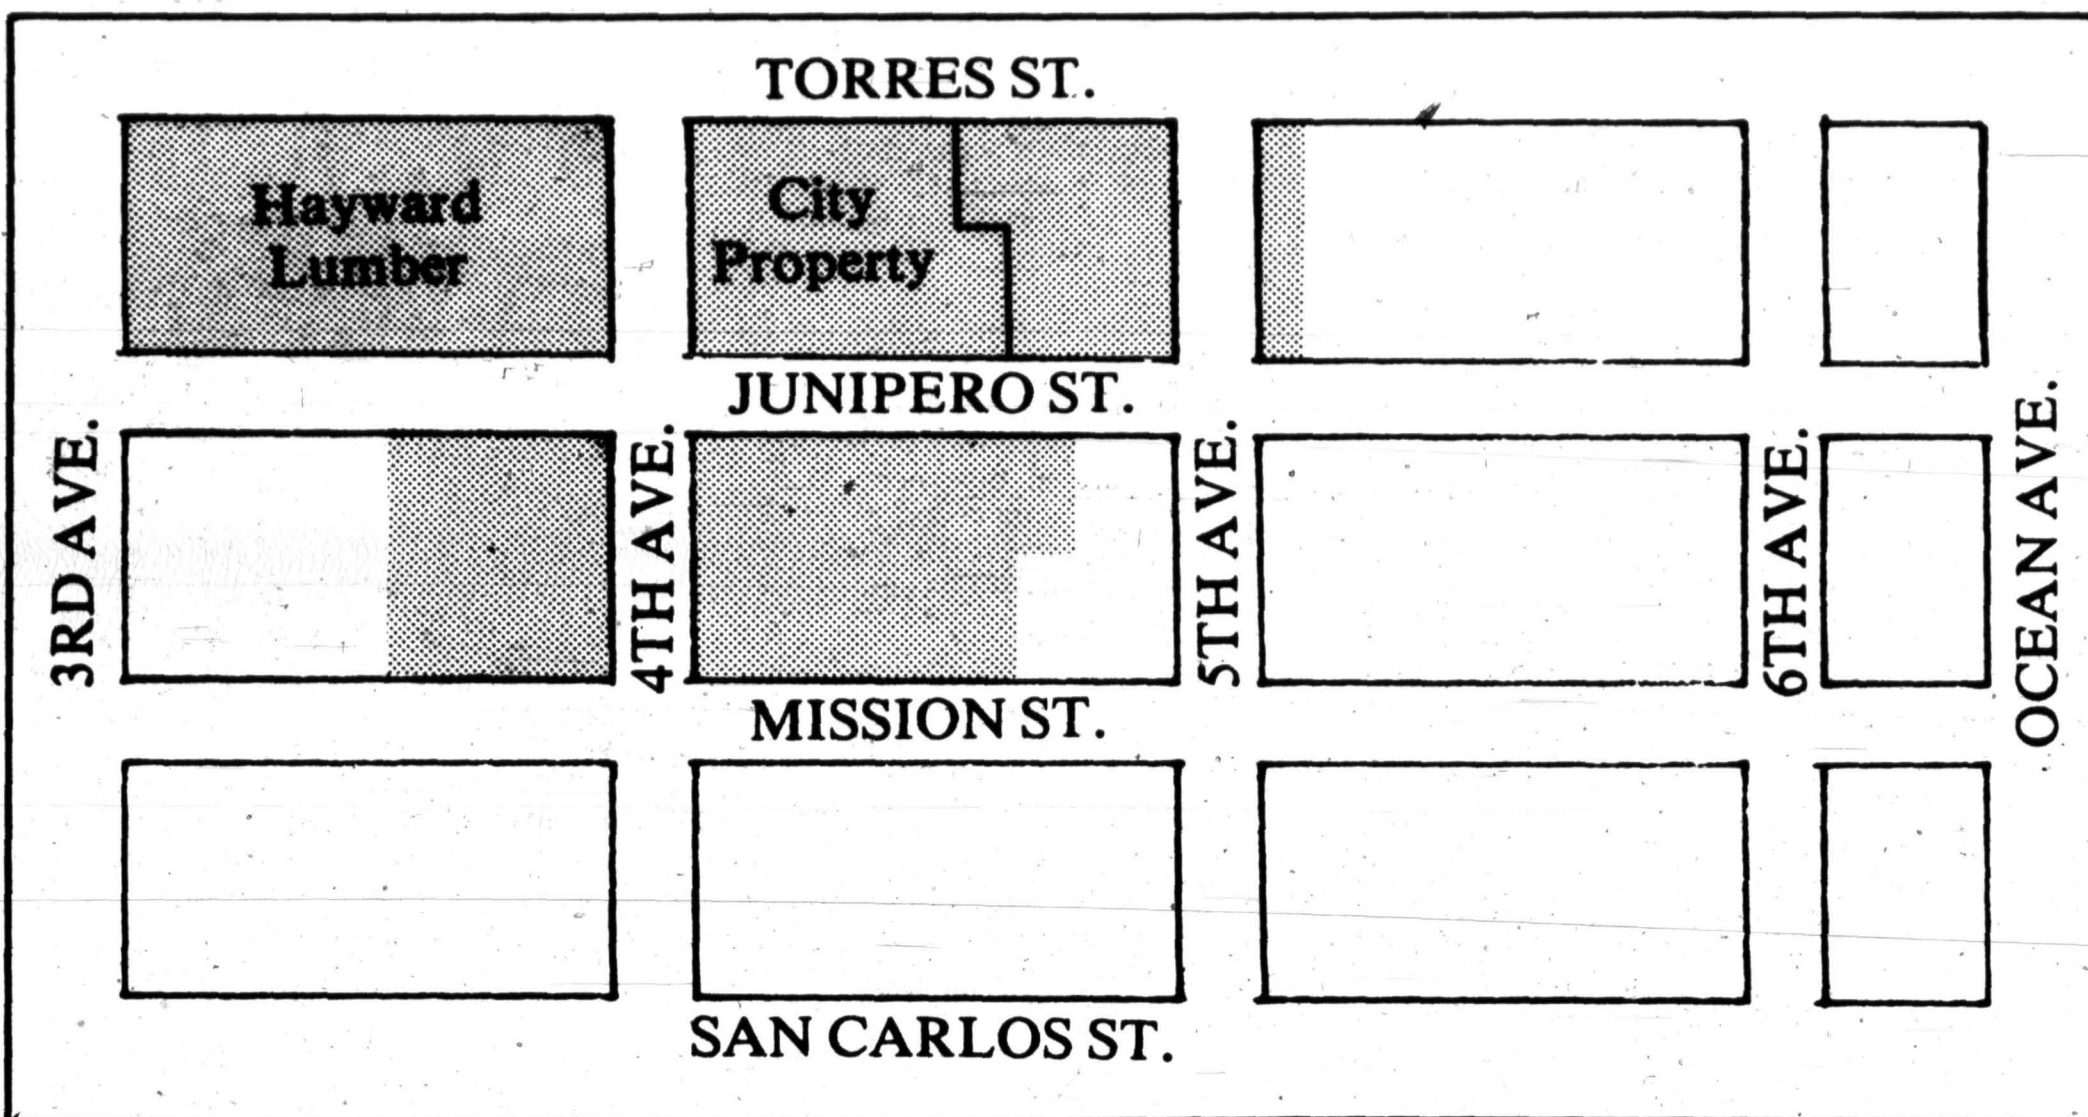

He had not received a report from the city council yet, he added.

In September, the planning commission continued discussions of the hotly contested R-4 zoning regulations and specific plan when the city council began considering buying the 53,900 square foot Hayward Lumberyard.

The council started looking into its purchase after vigorous protests by Carmel residents against the property's development and, in particular, increasing the density from 33 units per acre to 66 units per acre.

That would allow a total of 57 apartment units or 73 units with a density bonus for affordable housing. Another option is building a total of 11,700 square feet of commercial development, with corresponding reduction in residential units.

Mayor Clint Eastwood sent a postcard survey to registered Carmel voters asking if they wanted the city to buy the property. The response was overwhelmingly for the city to acquire the property. Earlier this year, the city council had declined to buy the lumberyard site for $3 million.

If the commission chooses to remove the Hayward Lumberyard, located between Junipero Avenue and Torres Street and Third and Fourth avenues, it could determine zoning requirements for the rest of the district.

That would include Bob Murphy's lower 20,000 square foot lumberyard on the corner of Junipero and Fourth avenues, also being considered for 66 units per acre.

At that density, the property could be developed with 33 apartment units or 10,000 square feet of commercial and fewer residential square footage.

Assistant Planner Brian Roseth explained that the choices the commission will face on Wednesday include:

- The commission could determine whether or not to require an environmental impact report on the zoning changes, with or without the Hayward Lumberyard included.

If the commission decides to require an EIR, it could serve as a vehicle to address ways to amend the proposed plan, Roseth said.

One question the commission must decide if the Hayward Lumberyard site is removed from consideration at this time, is an EIR necessary for the rest of the R-4 zone? The "upper lumberyard," as the Handley property is called in the R-4 specific plan, was the focus of attention by most of the public.

Clayton Anderson, president of the Carmel-by-the-Sea Neighborhood Association which led the protest, said he believed that the entire R-4 zone should be subject to an EIR.

"We're concerned about the total R-4 area, especially the Murphy site," he said.

Increased traffic remains an issue, he said.

"They haven't (in the present plan) taken into consideration the flow of traffic in and out of the R-4," he said. "Their analysis stops at Torres Street. What happens beyond there?"

- The commission could decide, once the upper lumberyard is removed, to rezone the rest of the R-4 to residential-commercial.

Residential-commercial has a density of 33 units per acre and almost exactly the same commercial uses as permitted in the proposed zoning for the R-4.

A major difference is the RC zone allows new motels and hotels while the proposed R-4 zoning eliminates new hotels.

Rezoning to RC would also allow some commercial development along Torres Street, which borders the single-family residential district.

- The commission could leave the zoning as it currently stands in the city books, which allow 33 units per acre in the entire zone and no new commercial development — including no new hotels or motels. Anderson said he felt 33 units per acre for the entire zone is acceptable.

To table the proposed specific plan and rezone would eliminate years of work by the planning commission, city staff and representatives of the owners.

- Simply go ahead decide on the zoning for the rest of the R-4, which includes 66 units per acre along Junipero Avenue and 33 units per acre along Torres Street. New commercial is allowed along Junipero Avenue but residential only is allowed along Torres Street.

- Simply continue the entire R-4 until the purchase of the Hayward Lumberyard is decided upon.

Eastwood said the council could make a decision in December, but there is no way to predict what will happen during the negotiations.

Supervisors reject controversial Williams subdivision

By DAVID LELAND

ENDING WHAT many believe to be the longest battle over a minor subdivision in county history, the Monterey County Board of Supervisors Tuesday denied a building permit for the Williams property.

More than 30 residents from the Carmel Meadows Subdivision, which abuts the 5.28 acres of land in question, crowded into the supervisors chambers in Salinas to hear the verdict.

"This is the most debated minor subdivision in the history of Monterey County," said 5th District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman, after the vote. "It's also the most controversial."

The board upheld (3-2, with 1st District Supervisor Marc Del Piero and 2nd District Supervisor Barbara Shipnuck dissenting), an appeal of a building permit issued to Williams Enterprises, Inc., which allowed for a lot to be split in half with two houses being built upon it.

The matter first came before the board in 1984 and has bounced back and forth between that board and the county Minor Subdivision Committee ever since.

The subdivision committee approved the project last summer, although the county planning department has never offered support of increased density on the land bordered on the north by state-owned Odello West property and the south by Carmel Meadows.

The county definition of a minor subdivision is dividing property into four units or less.

Environmental concerns were expressed by opponents of the Williams project, while legal issues were raised by those favoring the building permit.

Some possible impacts raised during the lengthy testimony included potential visual impacts, increased traffic, loss of natural vegetation, plus runoff and erosion control problems.

"The parcel is a problem parcel," said Strasser Kauffman. "The testimony we (the board) have heard going back several months indicates there would be major degradation of the environment."

Some residents testified that when they first built in the Carmel Meadows they were told that parcel of land would never be built on — that it would be an easement.

The facts, however, indicated that the property was indeed a legal lot of record and could be built upon.

BOTH OF the supervisors voting against granting the appeal, brought to the board by Carmel Meadows resident John Twilegar, said they were influenced by local land use plans.

Del Piero said that if he had it to do all over again he would keep the Williams land out of the Carmel Area Land Use Plan, which designates the property as medium density residential with two units per acre.

Using that plan as a basis for his decision, he believed he had no other choice in casting his vote, which he termed "very difficult."

"They (Williams) had been able to respond affirmatively to all of the environmental issues raised," he said, although he acknowledged that his view was subjective.

Shipnuck agreed, saying the land use plans "caused her to have serious doubts about denying the application."

The board will officially adopt findings supporting its decision in two weeks.

The appeal is the end of the line for the Williams' attempt to subdivide the property, with the only other option being to pursue the matter in civil court.

Williams can approach the county with plans to build a single-family home on the property, but he would have to go through the application process from the beginning, just as any other new applicant.

"Mr. Williams is in a fortunate position having a legal lot of record," said Strasser Kauffman, referring to the opinion that the land should be left vacant. "Some have argued that nothing should be built on that parcel."

She added that any plans submitted would be measured against the Carmel Area Land Use Plan, which offers stringent measures protecting the environment.

Property owner Mike Williams was en route from the peninsula to his home in Washington and was unavailable for comment.

Neighbors group changes its name

A NEIGHBORS group located in northeast Carmel has changed its name, "for the final time, we hope," said president Clayton Anderson.

The new name is Northeast Carmel Neighbors Association, formerly Carmel-by-the-Sea Neighbors Association, N.E. A majority of association members approved the name change at their Nov. 2 meeting.

The association had the largest turnout ever to hear three candidates for the water board. Each of the speakers—Paul E. Davis, Dale Hekhuis and Tom May—expressed a different point of view on the water needs of the area. All candidates expressed appreciation to the association for giving them the opportunity to speak before the group. Said Hekhuis, "This is the largest group we've been privileged to meet with."

The association also approved expansion of the board of directors to seven members by adding a Block Captain Chairman and a Community Liaison Representative to the board.

Draft EIR on new dam gets very little input

By NANCY HILLS

AFTER ALL the campaign rhetoric, confusion, concern and debate the past few months, the public hearing to take comment on the New San Clemente Dam draft environmental impact report seemed very quiet and almost non-existent.

On Nov. 9, the last meeting for two members of the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District board, the district listened to six people make comments on the draft EIR.

The period for written comments ends Nov. 24. Any issues brought up by individuals or agencies during the comment period will have to be addressed in the final certified copy of the document.

Boardmembers Patricia Bernardi and John Williams will no longer be water district directors come Dec. 1, when newly elected members Paul Davis and Jim Hughes are sworn into their posts. Bernardi was fourth in the race for three board seats and Williams did not seek re-election.

The issues raised during the public comments on the EIR sounded like far-off echoes of the campaign battles, including using reclamation and small, scattered reservoirs for storage rather than a single dam.

Former water board candidate Dale Hekhuis asked the board to keep phasing of the water for growth over a 30-year period as part of the project, a position he advocated during the election campaign.

The most poignant and strongly worded comments were made by Fred Slaybaugh of the Sleepy Hollow Homeowners Association. Sleepy Hollow is the community closest to the dam and will bear the brunt of the noise and increase in traffic during the two-year construction period.

The dam, because of its building type, will require 24-hour construction, and continuous truck delivery.

Slaybaugh started out his comments by thanking the board and district for its hard work on the project EIR, with a special thanks for Bernardi and Williams.

But Slaybaugh's comments were not favorable about the treatment of Sleepy Hollow's problems addressed in the draft report.

"The effects on Sleepy Hollow are considered negligible because they are short-term," Slaybaugh said.

Short-term or not, they should be given more consideration in the report, he said.

"Our peace and quiet will be blasted," Slaybaugh said. "In short, our way of life will disappear."

The board listened to all the comments without responding. The environmental review process constrains them from making any decision before the process is finished.

IN ANOTHER agenda item, the board voted to uphold the staff's recommendation to deny a water connection fees appeal by Carmel, Sand City and Pacific Grove.

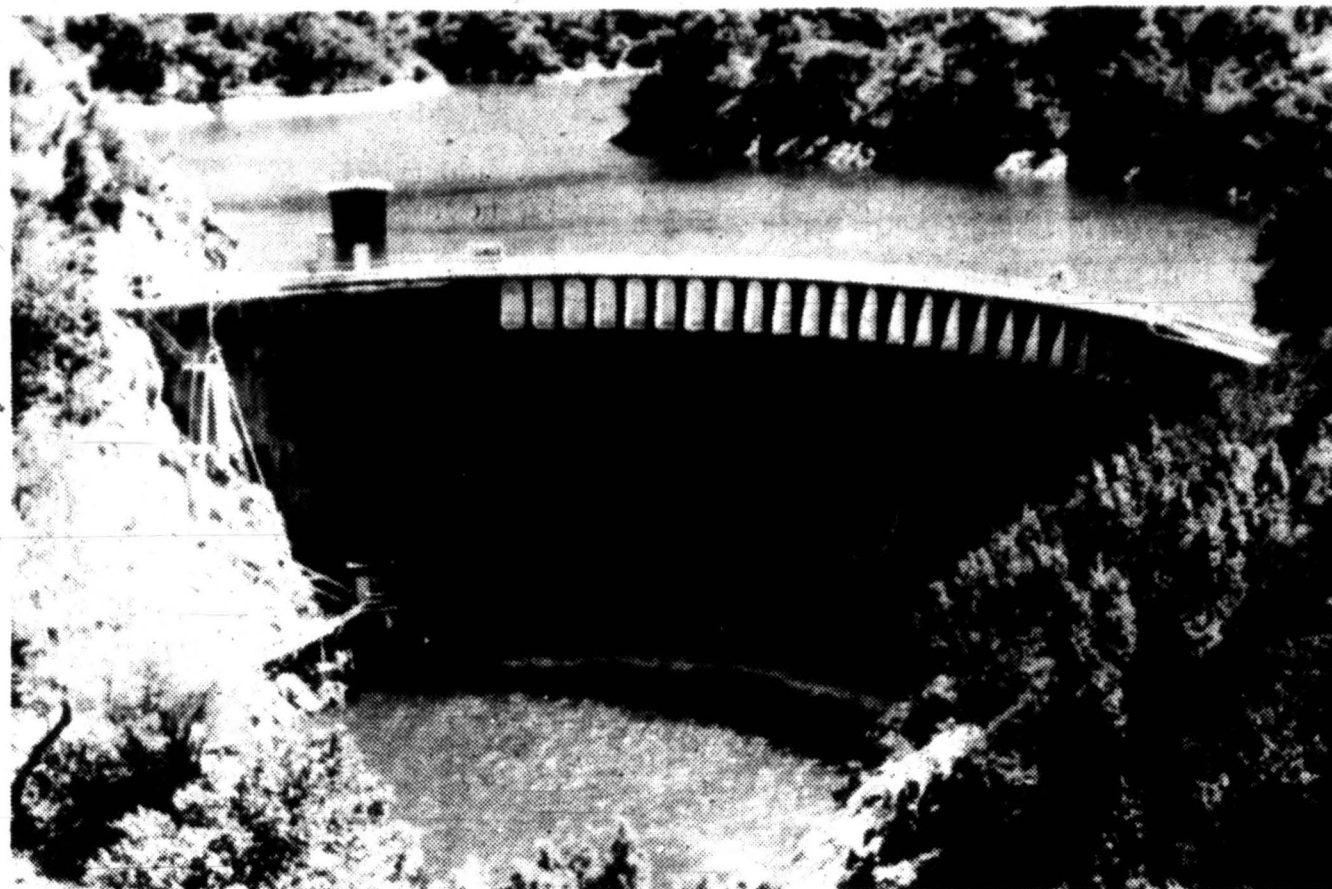

The cities were asking for the return of water connection fees for public projects, such as the public bathrooms in Devendorf Park.

The fees go into a fund to help pay for the proposed dam.

The district stands to lose about $2 million in federal money paid toward the dam from water connection fees for the Presidio of Monterey expansion. Payment for future federal projects is also in question.

The federal government bases its payment of fees to local agencies on how local governments are treated. If local governments are not charged, the federal government will refuse to be charged also.

Carmel based its appeal of $7,042 for public restrooms on a California Supreme Court decision which stated the San Marcos County water district could not collect money for capital improvements from the San Marcos school district.

Sand City appealed $1,133 for a permit for Calabrese Park and Pacific Grove appealed $2,098 for landscape watering on the Monterey Peninsula Recreation Trail.

The California Legislature drafted emergency legislation this year to close the loophole, but Gov. George Deukmejian vetoed it this summer after the bill passed the state senate and assembly.

The district staff claimed that the legislation that created the district gives it special powers to assess fees, while the cities' attorneys argued that it did not give them the specific powers to charge those fees.

How Carmel voted Nov. 3

DICK HEUER led the field of Monterey Peninsula Water Management District Board candidates in Carmel with 815 votes, according to a precinct breakdown by the Monterey County Office of Elections.

Heuer, an incumbent and strongly in favor of the dam, was third in the entire water district vote and retained a place on the board.

Next in line after Heuer came Dale Hekhuis with 749 votes. Hekhuis is the former chairman of the local chapter of the Sierra Club and also for the proposed dam.

Incumbent Patricia Bernardi was third in line with 735 votes. Bernardi was also for the dam project and is considered an environmentalist, but came in fourth in the total district vote, thus losing her seat on the board.

Carmel City Treasurer Sandra Skillicorn nabbed fourth place with Carmel voters, bringing in 628 votes.

Jim Hughes was fifth with 563 votes and Paul Davis, who led the field in overall district vote, was sixth in Carmel with 544 votes.

Davis and Hughes, as the first and second vote getters in the overall water district, won seats on the water board.

Tom May was next in line with 373 votes; then John Hammond with 188; Steve Grabinski, 187; Michael Bogatirev, 145; and Charles Carter, 27.

Absentee ballots are still being counted, and the final certified election results will not be known until later this week.

Senior housing complex clears its last hurdle

By DAVID LELAND

CARMEL FOUNDATION officials say they are delighted with the progress of their low-income senior housing complex, now that the last hurdle has been vaulted.

Last month the state Coastal Commission approved a building permit for the $1.2 million housing project, while the Carmel Foundation signed a 50-year lease with the city.

"These actions have cleared the way for the project's architects, Jacobowsky, Hawkins, Walker Associates, to begin working drawings for the project and we hope to go to bid on construction early in 1988," said Carmel Foundation president Bob Priestly.

Indeed, this week, City Administrator Doug Schmitz met with Monterey-based architect Bob Jacobowsky to review the concept plans for the underground parking garage which will be built beneath the senior housing complex.

The city will fund the $538,000 parking garage with money from in-lieu parking fees and general fund.

Plans call for a 37-space garage underneath the 20 studio apartments and four one-bedroom units, which will all measure between 450 and 550 square feet.

The complex will be located near the U.S. Post Office, at the corner of Fifth Avenue and Dolores Street, now a dirt parking lot owned by the city.

Schmitz said the city hopes to have the plans before the building department by the third week in January and at the bidding stage by the end of February.

A builder will be awarded the contract on April 5, with construction beginning two weeks after that, he said.

Completion of the underground parking garage and senior housing complex is slated for April of 1989.

Under the terms of the lease between the city and the foundation, building costs and maintenance for the housing project will be incurred by The Carmel Foundation.

The Carmel Foundation will finance the project, in part, from money willed from the Robert A. Norton Estate last May, according to John Frietas, foundation director.

The Norton Estate is valued at $1.2 million in cash, securities and real estate, according to estate executor Richard Nystrom.

Norton, a former Carmel police chief and real estate investor, specified that the bequest was to be used "for the purpose of making improvements in existing buildings...or to purchase of land or in constructing new buildings."

Priestly added that the donation is the largest in the foundation's 37-year history.

LOW INCOME housing for seniors is nothing new to the city. The idea goes back three administrations, most recently to the Charlotte, Townsend regime.

That council purchased three lots to add to the two lots already owned by the city at the Dolores Street location.

The council then asked the public for its input on the project and came up with the number of units they desired and whether underground parking was needed.

Statistics indicate that by 1991, 16 percent of Carmel residents will earn less than $10,000 a year.

But the housing project was put on hold shortly after the election of Mayor Clint Eastwood. At that time the Monterey County Housing Authority was in charge of the housing project.

Expecting an influx of tourists, the administration notified the housing project to hold off on any plans because the space was needed for parking.

During that time the Carmel Foundation took over responsibility for the proposed senior complex and all appeared to be going well — until the water moratorium.

That problem was solved last year when the city approved the senior complex along with several projects which were scheduled for a permit before the moratorium was imposed.

The principal problem with the long delay has come in the form of a 75-person waiting list for low-income housing — the list for the two existing senior housing complexes run by the foundation and the new project now stands at 10 years.

Director Frietas said there is no firm criteria currently set for selection of applicants for the new project because it is more than a year off.

Once selected, however, the renters will be living in modest accommodations with the latest conveniences.

Amenities for the complex include a central lounge, centralized laundry/dryer facilities, spaces and ramps for handicapped and wheelchair residents, adjustable kitchen and other counter spaces, a central garden area and private outdoor patios.

In an effort to provide ample security, the parking garage will have iron gates in operation at the pedestrian and vehicle entrances, which will be locked each evening at around 9.

ALL SYSTEMS are "go" for Carmel Foundation's senior housing complex planned for Fifth and Dolores, which now serves as a dirt parking lot. City officials hope to have the project completed by April of 1989.

They have national platform, need a candidate

TONY SETON believes the time has come for the voters of the nation to take control of the political process by letting the presidential candidates conform to an established platform rather than the candidates dictating what they think is important. (Mac McDonald photo.)

By DAVID LELAND

GET READY for democracy with a twist.

Instead of waiting for a presidential candidate to dictate acceptable campaign promises, a small group of peninsula residents now has a platform and is trying to find a likely politician.

Leading the band of two-dozen disgruntled voters — who call themselves "11/8/88" — is former ABC News producer and Carmel resident Tony Seton.

"It was my feeling, after looking at the candidates, that there was no one representing the ideas that my friends and I had," says Seton, who last Sunday began his campaign by placing a full-page ad expressing his views in a local newspaper.

The group uses the date of the next presidential election — Nov. 8, 1988 — for its name.

Seton says he doesn't believe such an approach to politics has ever been attempted, but the idea seems sound.

Early next year "11/8/88" will begin a nationwide campaign to gather money and support with which to sway their pick.

Seton says his group hopes to have gathered the support of 70 million voters and $15 million by election time. He adds that President Reagan won in 1984 with only 54 million votes, or 53 percent of the electorate.

Seton says his group has "two or three" candidates in mind for president, including a woman, but declines to name them. He did say that he will travel to Washington, D.C. early next year to begin talking with several senators.

The platform offered by "11/8/88" is a simple, non-partisan plea for responsibility in government.

"The issue is the platform, not the structure," explains Seton. "That's not to say the two-party system can't be dealt with, but it hasn't been."

The "11/8/88" platform asks for a heightened concern with the environment, non-destructive ways of producing and using energy, ways to bolster the economy, improved education and healthcare, reduced defense spending, tightening up foreign policy, cracking down on organized crime and keeping human rights issues in the nation's spotlight.

SETON COMES to the political arena with impressive credentials; his latest venture is not the work of a crackpot.

Born and raised in Massachusetts, Seton was graduated from New York University with a degree in political science in 1972.

It was during his undergraduate years that he began his sojourn into the world of broadcast journalism, serving as a copyboy at ABC News for $23 a week.

After graduation, he worked his way up the ranks of the staff and produced such events as the Watergate hearings, Spiro Agnew investigation and served as Barbara Walters' news producer.

But after seeing how the machinery of government really works, Seton resigned from ABC-TV in the fall of 1980 and moved to Marin County, north of San Francisco.

There he worked as a freelance writer, producer and consultant until moving to Hurricane Point, near Big Sur, in 1985.

The five months he spent in complete isolation at the point, sitting 500 feet above the sea without any electricity, was a turning point, he says.

The message was clear: he couldn't escape from society's wrongs — he needed to explore ways to change things by becoming a part of the system.

Moving to Carmel, Seton began teaching a course in documentary film writing at Monterey Peninsula College and working as a private consultant.

All the while he continued looking for a way to spread his views on how government should be run, with the people of the country and world coming out ahead.

Seton is deliberate in his methodology; he plans to take his ideas to the nation's colleges — as was done in the '60s. The colleges offer a large number of voters which, if tapped, can change the system, he says.

Seton is unconcerned about a timetable — there's nothing to say a candidate even needs to be agreed upon before the Democratic Convention next August.

"We are a very fast-paced society; we are a media-oriented society," he says. "There's no reason a candidate could not be nominated the Sunday before the election — and still win."

But Seton adds that "11/8/88" will attempt to keep within the two-party system, however, it does not ruling out the idea of a third party.

The important thing, he cautions, is for the nation to put its priorities in order and become responsible to whom it elects.

"We're not here on this planet just to buy VCRs," he says. "We must be the heroes of our own time."

Supervisor renews fight against offshore oil

By DAVID LELAND

FIFTH DISTRICT Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman took her environmental campaign on the road this week, and returned from Santa Monica full of optimism in the continuing fight against offshore oil drilling along the California coast.

In addition to presenting a panel discussion on building coalitions to protect the coastline, she was also honored by "Troubled Waters: The Future of the Coast," for her work in protecting the state's coast.

"I really appreciate that award," she said. "I was terribly moved by that distinction."

The conference, held earlier in the week, addressed the planned expansion of offshore drilling proposed for the nation's coastal waters by inviting experts from nationwide to take part.

Representatives, including members of the coastal tourism industry, commercial fishing industry, and the state Coastal Commission, spoke at the conference.

The most important part of the daylong event, Strasser Kauffman said, concerned the public becoming more informed of the presidential candidates' intent.

"The main outcome of the conference is that offshore oil drilling will be a presidential issue," she said. "Any candidate will have to take a clear position that offshore drilling is unacceptable."

Joining Strasser Kauffman in her views was Santa Cruz Supervisor Gary Patton, who served as master of ceremonies for the conference.

"What happens to the California coast is important not just to us but to the nation," he said. "This is a national conference in which California leadership will be demonstrated to participants from all over the United States. This conference takes a first step toward a national energy policy that respects and protects the incredible values of our national coastal resources."

Presidential hopefuls Michael Dukakis, Bruce Babbitt, Paul Simon, Dick Gephardt, Albert Gore and Jesse Jackson — speaking via satellite hookup — each supported protection of the California coast from further offshore oil drilling.

Strasser Kauffman said the first sale of offshore drilling leases permits is scheduled for only one month after the inauguration, and will involve the water off of the Mendocino coast.

Later that year, drilling leases are slated for the waters stretching from Santa Barbara south to the Mexican border.

STRASSER KAUFFMAN added that statistics show that if all of the oil from the state's coastal waters is mined, it will only provide 39 days worth of energy for the nation — which, she said, hardly seems worth it.

"The conference participants would not give their very large electoral vote to any presidential candidate who is unwilling to rescind these leases," she said.

On the peninsula Strasser Kauffman cited the potential of dirty air quality as the main culprit of offshore drilling.

"Nobody here is willing to put up with poor air quality," she said, referring to the large tourism industry which could suffer as a result.

The county also recently joined a lawsuit against a large oil consortium. The claim disputes the federal government's right to force counties to allow the loading and unloading on land of oil that is pumped off the coast.

Strasser Kauffman vowed to continue her fight against any offshore drilling off the peninsula or in any other part of the state.

"To me," she said, "this is an issue on which you can't compromise."

TM lectures offered free

A FREE Transcendental Meditation presentation as taught by Maharishi Mahesh Yogi will be held Thursday, Nov. 12 and Wednesday, Nov. 18.

As taught by Carmel resident David Rosenkranz, the presentation will be at 7 p.m. both evenings. Call Rosenkranz for directions at 624-9169.

"If man does not violate natural law, he will not generate stress around him," says Rosenkranz. "With the regular practice of Transcendental Meditation techniques, individuals naturally begin to think and act more in accord with natural law."

As a result, with reduced stress in the world, society will become more progressive and peaceful, Rosenkranz adds.

EARLIER THIS week 5th District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman received an award honoring her for her work in protecting the state's coastline. The supervisor also served on a panel which told of how to set up coalitions to protect the coast.

Panetta seeks House pages

YOUNG MEN and women who are interested in serving as a page in the House of Representatives were urged by Rep. Leon E. Panetta to contact one of his offices to seek information on how to apply.

Panetta is authorized to appoint one of the 66 House pages. He is currently seeking applicants to serve from Feb. 1 until June 30, 1988. Panetta urged potential applicants to get in touch with one of his local offices immediately.

Students in 11th-grade who have maintained at least a 3.0 grade point average in certain basic subjects during ninth- and 10th-grades are eligible. A page serving during the school year must attend the House Page School.

Page duties consist primarily of delivery of correspondence and small packages within Congress, as well as answering telephones near the House floor, taking messages for House members, and other duties.

Birth mothers group meets every month

A BIRTH mothers support group meets once a month at the Childrens Services Center in Monterey.

Birth mothers are women who have given their children up for adoption; the group allows these women to share their feelings with others, according to Terri Livingston, who has been a member of the year-old group.

"There are a lot of women out there...and there's a lot of pain involved," she said. "This gives them a chance to talk about it. We're not a search group, but we have information on it."

The support group meets at 7 p.m. on the last Wednesday of each month at the center at 484 Lighthouse in New Monterey. More information can be obtained by calling either Carol Bishop or Gayle Ward at Childrens Services Center of Monterey County, 649-3033.

Meals on Wheels needs volunteers

DRIVERS AND other volunteers are needed to deliver 200 meals daily to shut-ins and the handicapped on the peninsula for Meals on Wheels.

According to Chuck Poland, a Carmel volunteer, 200 homes are served with three meals five days a week from Carmel Valley to Marina, but 22 volunteer drivers are needed daily to deliver those meals.

"We were seven drivers short the other day," said Poland, who has been pressed in to service so often that he's driving almost daily now. "It means a lot to these people. You thank your lucky stars when you leave."

Poland said there are 22 routes, three of them in the Carmel area. One route usually takes from 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. (including driving to and from the pick-up point in New Monterey).

Each shut-in is delivered a breakfast, one cold meal (usually sandwich, salad and juice), and one hot meal. He added that volunteers are also needed to make sandwiches and salads at the Meals On Wheels kitchen in New Monterey.

Almost all of the help is from volunteers, Poland said, so often the agency ends up short-handed. If you would like to volunteer to help out, contact Meals on Wheels at 375-4454.

Meals on Wheels is a non-profit organization now in its 15th year.

Forest Hill Park was city's first

FOREST HILL Park, located at the intersection of Camino Del Monte and Junipero in Carmel-by-the-Sea, is just one of the lovely natural settings available to the community.

Forest Hill Park is designed as a refuge for young and old alike. The theme is one of natural vegetation settings designed into and around recreational activities. It is the first recreational park in Carmel. The park features shuffleboard courts, horseshoe pits, a 4,200 foot par course physical fitness trail, a children's playground, and tennis courts. The tennis courts are located in the northeast portion of the park near Lorca Lane.

The land on which the park is located was originally owned by the old Forest Hill School and deeded to the city of Carmel-by-the-Sea in 1941. The area originally was a shallow, forested canyon with a small creek channel running northeast to southwest. Portions of the old creek still exist in the park today.

Open-gym program now available

BASKETBALL AND Volleyball enthusiasts are invited to attend the open-gym sports program sponsored by the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea.

The Recreation Department holds basketball and volleyball twice weekly at the Carmel Middle School located off Carmel Valley Road.

Under supervision, both programs are run on a drop-in basis with a $1 door charge per person. On Tuesday and Thursday from 7-9 p.m., basketball is scheduled. Half-court pick up games are played.

On Mondays and Wednesdays from 7-9:30 p.m., volleyball is scheduled with beginners on Mondays and advanced players on Wednesdays. Drills and basic instruction are provided along with game play.

Army reservist from Valley 'makes the team'

ARMY RESERVE Maj. Dennis W. Manske (center) sights a landmark during the map-reading portion of the orienteering event of the 1987 NATO Confederation of Interallied

By Staff Sgt. RICHARD D. GLYNN

COPENHAGEN, Denmark — For athletes, the stuff dreams are made of comes in many forms. From the acid test of making the team to the pinnacle of athletic endeavor, international competition, meeting the challenges of sports is indelibly etched in our national consciousness.

Army Reserve Maj. Dennis W. Manske, 41, son of Robert F. and Irene A. Manske of Carmel Valley, not only "made the team," but also realized his dream again when he and 18 fellow reservists from the Army, Air Force, Marine Corps, and Coast Guard competed in the annual NATO Confederation of Interallied Reserve Officers military pentathlon held here in late July.

"I originally turned out for the U.S. confederation team to represent the United States, for the challenge and to attain my highest potential as a military combat leader," said Manske, who is an assistant professor of military science at the University of Illinois, Champaign. "This is my 14th time competing in CIOR since I began in 1974 and I plan to compete for 20 years."

Better known in NATO circles as CIOR, the three-day competition attracts athletes whose physical prowess is matched by their expertise in military skills. The pentathletes competed in three-man teams to bull their way through a 500-meter land obstacle course; swim a 50-meter water obstacle course; fire the host nation's pistol, rifle and submachine gun; and test their first-aid skills. The final test is the orienteering event, where the athletes ran through a 12.7-kilometer compass and map orienteering course in central Zealand, outside Copenhagen.

"Overall, we did poorly this year, but only because we had a disastrous third day where most of the points are in land navigation during the orienteering event," said Manske, a 1968 graduate of the U.S. Military Academy, West Point, N.Y. "The orienteering was the most difficult part of the competition for me because of having to navigate over unfamiliar terrain that was thickly vegetated and fairly flat.

"Our strong points during the competition were marksmanship and the obstacle courses."

Manske noted there's more to the CIOR pentathlon than just competition. With 42 teams from the United Kingdom, Denmark, Norway, Belgium, the Netherlands, Italy, West Germany, Greece, France and Canada, there's also a chance to make new friends and renew old acquaintances.

"I continue in CIOR because it develops me so well as a combat leader and a NATO member," said Manske. "It provides the ability to work together with other nations in marksmanship with a variety of NATO weapons, terrain familiarization in the European theater and in building trust, cooperation and camaraderie between the NATO nations."

Manske said he also enjoyed the off-duty advantages of competing in CIOR through seeing new lands and meeting new people. "I like the Danes. They're a hospitable, friendly and conscientious people who pursue a practical, frugal lifestyle."

It's also the citizen-soldier aspect of the CIOR competitions that is an important one for these athletes — without the support of their civilian employers and reserve commanders, they couldn't participate.

"I really have to thank the Army ROTC cadet command for supporting my training program and giving me permission to try out for the team and to compete in Denmark," said Manske. "The cadet command administers a similar competition for its ROTC cadets called Ranger Challenge. That and CIOR competitions are mutually supportive in their missions: to train future officers in combat leadership of the 'Total Army.' The cadets inspire me to excel just as I aspire to inspire them."

By NANCY HILLS

IT'S KITTY litter, canned foods and grooming aids for the Lobos Lodge on Ocean Avenue. Maybe.

The Carmel Planning Commission Nov. 4 approved an application for The Butler's Pantry submitted by Joan and Jerry Winters.

The Butler's Pantry, listed as a specialty food boutique, will be located in the former location of How to Do Anything Bookstore in Lobos Lodge, on the north side of Ocean Avenue between Monte Verde and Casanova streets.

Chairman Ken White asked that the item be returned to the planning commission again on Nov. 18, however, because many issues were left undecided by the commission's action Nov. 4.

"We didn't discuss what kind of food they could sell, hours of operation, anything like that," White said.

The lodge borders the residential district and is in the residential-commercial buffer zone.

"It's Carmel's own 7-11," Commissioner Bill Brown said, when reviewing the application.

The Winters were in St. Louis and unable to attend the meeting, but left a long list of possible merchandise for the proposed store.

A short summary of the items listed includes breads, cereals, bakery goods, juices, jams, jellies, catsup, mustard, mayonnaise, birdseed, cat litter, flea powder, fresh flowers, plants, newspapers, books, cards, magazines, brushes, combs, toothbrush, toothpaste, facial tissue, napkins, paper towels and assorted other items.

The health department, according to Carmel Planning Director Diane White, will not allow the sale of some of the foods listed, such as fresh vegetables and meats, because there is no water on the premises.

The staff recommended denial because without meats and vegetables it is not considered a full-line grocery store, the only type of food store allowed in the RC district. Also, Diane White expressed some concern that the listed merchandise was confusing and would not fit into the 400-square-foot space.

However, the commission — with the exception of Howard Nieman Jr. — decided that it might be a good idea.

"I think it might be a great idea," Commissioner Carla Ramsey said. "People in the neighborhood could go on foot to a stationery store (Spencers Stationery) and to this one."

As for the illegality of allowing such a use in that zone, Ramsey said, "What's right for one is right for all." Ramsey was apparently referring to the zoning laws that were changed or ignored to allow Spencers to move into a new location.

Commissioner Ed Hicks agreed with Ramsey, stating that when he lived at the bottom of Nob Hill there was a little market there which saved everyone a climb.

However, one commissioner pointed out, it is against the zoning laws to allow a specialty-grocery store in the RC zone.

"We've resolved that before," Ramsey countered.

Keeble agreed he thought it was a good idea, saying he believed that it was a grocery store even though it did not sell meats and vegetables.

"Tourists aren't going to buy kitty litter," he said.

Nieman argued briefly that it was against zoning laws to allow it, but when the vote was taken, he was the only one to vote against the application.

IN OTHER business, the commission:

- Heard comments from attorney Michael Albov about parking for a two-story addition to the Court of the Fountains on Mission Street between Ocean and Seventh avenues.
- The application for apartments above the courtyard's buildings will be heard again Dec. 9.

• Continued a use permit application for Jeannette's on San Carlos Street between Ocean and Seventh avenues. Owners Deen and Jeannette Rowe requested a meeting with the commission's land use committee to resolve the problem.

The Rowes were issued a business license change of ownership November 1985 when the Rowes purchased the shop, then called Ilonka's. The Rowes said they would maintain the shop as a handmade clothing, doll and imported items store so there was no change in the type of business and a use permit was unnecessary.

However, the staff report states the shop has shifted to selling sweatshirts, T-shirts — apparel bearing local place names — and souvenir items, therefore is not selling the same merchandise and should be reviewed for a use permit.

Correction

THE CARMEL PINE CONE was in error when it reported last week that Carmel Planning Commissioner Carla Ramsey voted against a use permit for a clothing store in the present location of Fourratt-Simmons Real Estate office on Ocean Avenue.

Ramsey had stepped down from any discussion on applications in the building and did not vote on any use permits in the structure. The story should have read that Chairman Ken White, not Ramsey, was one of three commissioners who voted against the use permit.

Center will locate funds for college-bound students

MONEY IS available for students who are pursuing a college education. Through a centralized national data base the College Resource Center will locate the money students need for their college education.

The Carmel center provides students with a custom-tailored computer report that identifies all sources of funding for college; everything from scholarships, grants and loans to tax-deduction opportunities and work study programs.

"Obtaining money for college is an extremely complicated process," states Kathleen Lunsford the director of the Carmel center. "Parents don't know where to turn for complete and accurate information. Through our network, families are provided with information they need to pay for college. The computer report will walk the student through the entire college financing process and will identify all sources of aid for which the student is eligible."

With the recent cuts in federal aid, students are looking for other means to pay for college. The personal report locates private scholarships and grants all based on the student's personal background. The average student receives 43 scholarship sources.

The centralized computer is the most complete data base available. For maximum benefit, the center recommends that the student review the computer report with parents and/or counselors.

The national data base; College Assistance Agency, was founded by John Smith in 1983 and has provided thousands of students with information that has enabled them to make college a reality.

The company also provides students with other services they need for college:

- College Selection Report. This report provides students with complete information on the colleges that have the characteristics they desire.

- Career Guidance Report. This report identifies the specific college majors, occupations and careers best suited for the student, based on his/her interests.

- SAT and ACT Preparation Courses. The center also provides thorough review courses for the Scholastic Aptitude Test and the American College Testing Program, complete with review information and practice tests.

For more information on all the services, contact the College Education Resource Center by writing to P.O. Box 223515, Carmel, CA 93922, or phone 265-5645.

SYMBOL OF ARMISTICE DAY

That first Armistice Day, four years ago, was not merely a celebration of the triumph of brute force; it was the triumph of a Principle — and all real Principle involves justice, love, understanding. With each returning Armistice Day there should be a larger understanding, a greater growth in the qualities which make for cleaner civilization and more consistent and harmonious living.

The boys gave their lives on the fields of France and Belgium, not only so that a nation might live, but so that all nations might live and expand and grow greater in love toward each other.

If, out of the confusion and hate and battle of that awful time there can emerge a better understanding, a cleaner citizenship, the destruction of life and property will not have been in vain. If we can grow in national character and thought as well as in prowess, Armistice Day will finally mark a truce with hate, followed by victory.

PLENTY OF RAIN IN NIGHT STORM

It rained Wednesday night. Numerical statistics cannot be given, as Dr. D. T. MacDougal, Carmel's rain statistician, was in San Francisco Thursday and the phone rang in vain where Carmel's rain gauge is kept. Anyway, it was quite a rain' half an inch or more, to judge from the pelting down pour on the roof. It was preceded by a high, blustery wind which brought down dead pine needles in showers — Carmel's equivalent for falling autumn leaves. The rain really began to fall in earnest about 3 o'clock Thursday morning, though there had been fitful showers from about 11 o'clock on. Thursday dawned clear and golden and well-washed.

PET SKUNKS FORBIDDEN

Myron W. Husband, M.D., director of public health for Monterey County, has announced that a new state regulation pertaining to skunks, became effective November 1, 1962. Designed to further protect the public from the danger of rabies, the new regulation prohibits the importation of skunks into or out of California. This in addition to the already existing law prohibiting the trapping or capture of skunks for pets or for sale. The transportation of skunks within the state is also prohibited.

Aside from the law, said Dr. Husband, anyone obtaining a pet skunk is flirting with real trouble. Baby skunks have been known to develop rabies 60 days after birth.

CITY COUNCIL RIFF GOES PUBLIC

The weighted pentagon that is the Carmel City Council nearly toppled irreversibly on to its 3-to-2 side Monday in heated debate about how to redecorate the wall behind its City Hall dais.

At issue was the size and manner of displaying Carmel's 1929 zoning code preamble. But many saw the move to enlarge one of its passages as a slap at tourists and the estimated 3,000 who work in Carmel but live elsewhere.

One council faction wanted to excerpt the passage that emphasized the city was created for people who live here. The other faction was adamant in saying the sign issue was designed to drive a wedge between businessmen and residents.

In a sometimes uncontrolled council session, the City Council finally compromised on the size and wording of a sign.

The sign will display the entire zoning preamble, not just the part that states Carmel is primarily a residential city. The proposal that stirred the council and prompted heckling from the audience was a 10-foot long redwood sign to cover the length of the wall behind the council table. As proposed by Councilmen Mike Brown and Helen Arnold, the sign, complete with gold-carved letters, would have cost more than $500.

CARMELO SCHOOL LEASE HAS BECOME FOCUS OF HEATED VALLEY DEBATE

The vacant Carmelo School site has become the latest battleground over land use in Carmel Valley.

The Monterey County Planning Commission is expected to decide Nov. 10 whether Graymore Investment Co. should be granted a use permit to renovate the site into a 22-unit senior citizen retirement complex.

The Carmel Unified School District Board of Education has signed a 30-year lease with the firm that will net the district $105,000 annually. Trustees close Carmelo and Woods schools last spring because of declining enrollment and financial problems.

DOLLARS & SENSE

By Anthony Piazza & Marshall Bloom

Down and ups of income stocks

DEAR BOYS in California:

My acquaintances back here in Nebraska are pretty angry with me. When they recently asked me how badly Black Monday had chewed up my stock portfolio, I replied, "So far, so good. I have no complaints. My stockbroker pals out on the wild central coast of California haven't let me down yet."

I told them that you had advised me back in August to hold onto my utilities because they were interest sensitive and not necessarily market sensitive. I told them it was just common sense and not a question of trying to outsmart the market.

They were stunned into total quietude. It really is a shame they don't understand.

Why don't you do them a favor and re-explain how utilities work. After all, we gave your San Francisco Forty Niners several fine running backs. The least you can do is ship some advice back as partial reimbursement.

Sincerely,

Halliburton G. Funnel

Dear Hal,

As a matter of fact, we recall that article you mention, The Ups and Downs of Income Stocks. Maybe we should now write one called The Downs and Ups.

You are 100 percent right. You, not the two of us, deserve all the credit for being a wise investor.

You're the one who said he wanted a good income idea. All we did was explain that literally millions of investors have used electric and telephone utilities as prime income investments for several decades.

You're the one who understood that income stocks do not soar up with a hot bull market nor do they crash with a bad market. Instead, they respond primarily to anticipated changes in interest rates.

Earlier this year, with the market going up wildly, all utilities went into a decline. The reason? Folks out there perceived that interest rates would rise for an indefinite period.

This created what appeared to some people to be a paradox. How, they wondered, could conservative stocks tumble when the market was taking off?

Now, however, the shoe is most definitely on the other foot. Although stocks in general are off by 25-30 percent, the income stocks are inexorably rising. Interest rates are coming down, down, down.

You're not a stock market genius because you own stocks that are bucking the downward trend. You're simply an owner of income stocks, marching to a different drummer. But you're definitely marching. What your acquaintances back there are doing sounds more like dashing and crashing.

Sincerely,

Bloom & Piazza

(Messrs. Piazza and Bloom associate vice presidents at Dean Witter Reynolds Inc., can be contacted for additional information, at 373-1861 or P.O. Box 631, Monterey 93940.)

Knowledge of CPR could save lives

MORE THAN 70 percent of all CPR (cardiopulmonary resuscitation) rescues occur in the home on an individual known by the rescuer.

Statistics show that more than 650,000 people in the United States died from heart attacks in 1986 and that heart disease is the leading cause of death in Monterey County.

On the other hand CPR saves more than 250 lives a day; the more people that know CPR, the more lives that can be saved.

With that in mind the Carmel Chapter of the American Red Cross offers CPR classes twice a month all year. The following classes are offered:

- Monday and Wednesday, Nov. 16 and 18, from 6 to 10 p.m.
- Saturday, Dec. 12, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Classes are held at the Carmel Red Cross house at Eighth and Dolores. Classes include demonstrations and teaching of the Heimlich maneuver. Cost is $15 for the eight-hour class. A certificate will be presented upon completion.

For more information call the Red Cross at 624-6921.

Firewood program in progress

The Public Use Firewood Program on the Monterey Ranger District of the Los Padres National Forest is now in progress and will run through Dec. 20, unless wet weather requires earlier termination.

Wood cutting will be limited to Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays between the hours of 7 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Permits are required and are currently being sold on a first-come first-serve basis. Firewood may be purchased at $15 per cord with a minimum purchase of two cords and a maximum purchase of five cords. The cutting area is located on Cone Peak Road, off Nacimiento-Ferguson road, about 25 miles west of Jolon.

For information and applications, contact USDA Forest Service, 406 South Mildred Ave., King City, CA 93930. Telephone number is 385-5434.

IRS offering qualified speakers on new taxes

As part of its fall campaign to assist taxpayers with information on how to get ready for Tax Reform, the Internal Revenue Service is offering to make qualified speakers available to any club, organization, or community group within the Central California area.

The changes in the tax law for 1987 affect every taxpayer and most businesses. A specially trained "Speaker Cadre" has been created by the IRS to get the word on Tax Reform out to Rotarians, Soroptimists, Kiwanians, etc.

"We are ready to appear before accounting groups or service clubs and other organizations of 25 or more," noted Public Affairs Officer Chips Maurer. The IRS will have handouts available at each speaking engagement including the new Form 1339, "Highlights of Tax Reform."

"I hope program chairpersons who are interested will contact us at 291-7114. Here at the IRS we strongly believe that the time to get ready for Tax Reform — is now," Maurer added.

Tennis and tea

TENNIS ANYONE? "Delighted," answered a number of celebrities and local buffs when asked to play in the Lindsey Wilder Celebrity Pro-Am Tennis Tournament.

Sponsors Landmark Land Co. and Fox & Carskadon did the asking because tennis begins with love. Many volunteers showed love by taking time off from work to make it all happen. Candice Gregory did the impossible by putting it together at Carmel Valley Ranch Resort in six packed weeks — with the help of many volunteers and the generosity of local businesses.

It started this way. In January, 16-year-old Lindsey Wilder (third generation native of Carmel Valley), was diagnosed as having Ewing's Sarcoma (a rare bone cancer that attacks children). Treatments and operations are economically draining. Thus, the love of local friends came to the rescue.

Celebrities nodding "yes" included Dynasty stars John Forsythe, William Beckley and gorgeous Emmy winner Leann Hunley. Actors: Ed Ames, Judy Norton-Taylor, Nels Van Patten, and Lucinda Crosby. Television's Joe Glover, and tennis greats John Lloyd, Eliot Teltscher, Bill Scanlon, Scott Draper, John Austin and Charlie Pasarell.

Handsome John ("Blake Carrington") Forsythe was the "star-of-stars" making all hearts flutter — those of the ladies, at least. Watch for him in January when he returns for a birthday party for a good friend. He, like Beckley (Dynasty's butler), who lives here as much as he can, loves it here.

A wine tasting and auction opened the tournament on Friday evening with tennis matches out in the sun all day Saturday and Sunday. At the celebrity gala Saturday at the resort hotel everyone expressed hope that this will become an annual event and predicted, if it does, that in a couple of years there will be a waiting list to get in.

On Sunday the winners were: John Austin, pro singles; Charlie Pasarell, Fred Brown, pro-am doubles; grand champions: Pasarell, Leann Hunley, Seth Melman, Bob Reed (of Pebble) and Vince Caladra. In an exhibition match, Bobby Riggs and John Austin won two-against-three, defeating John Forsythe, Bill Scanlon and Candice Gregory (tournament chairwoman). In the "lookalike" contest Bobby Frankel was winner as he called himself "Bobbie Jean King." (All in fun.)

A Toyota Tercel was raffled at the tournament. The car's history has the kind of story that perhaps would be more believable in fiction than in real life. Here's how the "real-life scenario" went. Maria Wahl won the car and gave it to celebrity tennis sponsors Fox & Carskadon to be re-raffled. Carmel Valley CPA Norman Glaser said when he purchased the tickets, "If I win the car I will give it to the Lindsey Wilder family." He won. And he did.

"Now," said volunteer Carolee Reeder, "It has found its rightful home — the Wilder family."

A script with a more touching denouement would be hard to concoct. The tennis matches began with love and ended with an act of love.

THE GARRIHYS — Vel and Joe — were hosts for a gourmet dinner at Gernot's in Pacific Grove. Forty Garrihy friends filled the three dining areas in the elegant Victorian restaurant.

In fact, Gernot Leitzinger came to Vel when he heard she wanted to raise money for the School Awareness Program for Suicide Prevention Center and they put together the evening with social hour champagne donated by Central Coast Wine Co. and Ventana Vineyards, with dinner wines by the Liquor Barn.

After dining, Vel spoke with great emotional difficulty, "My teenage daughter committed suicide three years ago today and I never thought I could stand up and talk about it. Now, I feel that I am able to do something to help others in a cause that is desperately needed." She added, "It is wonderful to spend an evening with friends and tell you about this need and to thank you all for your support."

While searching for answers and help, Vel located the School Awareness Program in New Jersey which has been successful in a number of schools with no suicides since the program began. "This is the program that we must bring to the Monterey County Suicide Prevention Center," she feels. The center currently has two paid staff members and 60 dedicated volunteers.

Friends included a few from Pebble: Jack and Mirka Kakis (just back from Greece), Gayle and Harry Holmes, Allen Funt, Margaret and Tom Oliver, Karen Hunter, Eric Calderon, Finis and Julie Conner, Tim and Laurie Hall and the Philip Neswitzes. Others were Gerry and Mary Martin, Vel's sister Wrenda Sabino from San Jose, Regina (Hernandez) Falzone from L.A., Velia and Jeff Gillis, Lee and Artie Early, Peter Komposch, Char Etienne, Karen La Vett, Joan and Matt Little, Ed and Paula Stark and Anne Anka. Joan Sailer was ill and unable to attend and others were out of town. Sorry if I omitted anyone.

of a year of many accomplishments, among them: receiving highest praise from the committee on Accreditation of Rehabilitation Facilities; building and parking lot improvements; and previous highs at Gateway Industry in attendance, contracts and income were broken.

Being grateful for help from businesses, the staff and other, the board of directors held their second annual awards presentation in Carmel's Mission Ranch Barn. It was a festive evening with food and wine contributed by restaurants, wineries and friends.

The awards ceremony onstage began with Outstanding Day Activity Program Staff Person of 1987 going to Christina Hunt (whose efforts seem to be the catalyst that invigorates, organizes and synchronizes the total effort of the program), and presented by board chair Gerald B. Dalton. To Minda Twankovitsch, who is considered more than a "Friday" program executive, Mr. Dalton said, "If Robinson Crusoe had this 'Friday' he would have made it off the island years earlier." Outstanding Staff Award went to Marilyn Victorine, director of services.

Professional Service Provider Award was received by Dr. Kay Stoleson, and accepting the NPS Catholic Chapel Service Organization Award was John Kelly. Roberto Gutierrez (master of many trades), was voted Outstanding Employee by a grateful staff. Not present were Mike Sweeney (Special Recognition Award), and Val Gottesman (Outstanding Employee of Residential Program).

Customers are absolutely necessary to the function of Gateway Industries as a rehabilitation center to keep 65 developmentally disabled people busy. And, long-term customers are a real luxury. This year's award to a Long-Term Customer went to Bill Evans of Evan-Moor Corp.

JUNIOR LEAGUE of Monterey County, always busy with projects, just held another "Next-To-New-Sale" last Saturday at Monterey County Fairgrounds. The night before, these ladies (dedicated to their community as volunteers in the fields of health, welfare, education, recreation and the arts), threw a party for themselves, hobbies and friends.

The Tex-Mex Barbecue Dinner and Auction Party had walls and tables lined with silent auction items with Dr. David William Hopkins, Jr. conducting a live auction later in the evening. Western attire prevailed along with a light social air belying all the hard work done by these leaguers to find merchandise to fill four buildings. Aiding the party atmosphere was music by the Alma Tropical Mexican Folk group from San Jose.

The party was fun, but just a part of fund-raising. The Friday night auction brought in $25,000 with the major item "Dinner for Eight" by John Pisto and Tom Verga bringing a top bid of $11,000. Twenty-four hundred people shopped Saturday spending $31,000 in seven hours. "Next-to-New" co-chairwomen, April Green and Jane Jones with Susan Jones and Mary Poland focusing on the auction, were thrilled. Paula Arnold and Shelley Kroopf arranged the auction party and there was a lot of new merchandise solicited by Donna Bruhn and Debbie Souza. In fact, 120 volunteers work all year on this project that supports the science fair, project lead, community calendar, Salinas Adult Day Care, community forum and First Brick House.

HOSTS GLORIA and Calvin Knickerbocker, hosts of the Panhellenic cocktail party, greeted Joan Peacock, vice president of the group.

JEFF GILLES, Assemblyman Rusty Areias and Leslie Buck attended the benefit for Suicide Prevention School Program at Gernot's.

SUNDAY AFTERNOON was booked with social doings — as are all fall weekend days. The Monterey Bay Chapter Links, Inc. celebrated its 13th Anniversary Tea with an international flavor Sunday afternoon in the Carmel Woman's Club. Among more than 100 guests were visitors from Senegal, Zaire, and France. Many local members attended in striking international costumes representing China, Egypt, India and other countries.

Links president Elizabeth Smith extended a warm welcome and explained that Links is a not-for-profit organization of women dedicated to educational, cultural and civic needs.

Tea chairperson Ruthie Watts arranged an international program of Korean song and dances from Brazil, China, Indonesia, Korea and Japan. The Links Teen Connection from the King Middle School performed African dances. The

We are now well into our eighth year of service to the senior citizens on the Monterey Peninsula. It has been, and will continue to be our sincere goal to improve the quality of care for our older generation and create a loving family atmosphere for this final chapter of transition. Perhaps, pave the road in a positive way for all of us, as we wander down the path to our Golden Years, now knowing what is at the end of this journey we will call the Book of Life.

A RECEPTION for two artists proved The Pacific Grove Inn is the perfect setting for sculpture by Sharon Andreason and paintings and batiks by Nym Gaujama.

Sharon, who lives on the peninsula, grew up in Oregon and has been an artist since high school. She has traveled and studied extensively and is influenced by Moore, Zuniga, Picasso, Marini and Manzu. There is a variety of patinas selected to suit the drama of the subject. Nym was born in Kenya and received formal training in London. She shows paintings of East Africa, Canada and India along with modern batiks that are skillfully executed.

The show, presented by Patti Kiely, will be on display for the next two weeks on the corner of Pine and Forest in the Victorian house built by the Bucks in 1904.

TIMING ALLOWED one to go from the Links Tea in Carmel to the Art Reception in Pacific Grove and to Monterey for "A Taste of Monterey Gold" given as a benefit for the Monterey County Symphony by the Guild.

Music, wine and food filled the Sheraton Grand Ballroom. Twelve of Monterey County's gold medal-winning wines were complemented with hors d'oeuvres graciously supplied by our best restaurants. Of course, opportunity to purchase assembled cases of the wine was the ultimate treat of the event, which was done with taste and class — the trademark of the Symphony Guild.

That case established the most significant constitutional precedent in land use law during the last 50 years.

Prior to joining the foundation in 1976, Best was deputy director, administration and legal affairs, and chief deputy director of the California Department of Transportation. He had also served the State of California as deputy director and chief referee of the Department of Social Welfare and as chief deputy director of the Department of Health. He also served as Gov. Deukmejian's transition coordinator for the Business, Transportation, and Housing Agency and the Department of Industrial Relations.

The CPOA business meeting, including election of officers and presentation of the Big Sur Beautiful Award, will begin at 7 p.m., followed by Best's presentation.

LOCAL SWIM COACH ATTENDS COACHES' COLLEGE AT OTC

Diana Whitesides, 35, of Carmel, was among a group of 26 swim coaches attending a swimming coaches' college at the Miller High Life-sponsored United States Olympic Training Center in Colorado Springs recently.

High school, college and other upper-level age group coaches signed up for the U.S. Swimming Coaches' College which was sponsored by the U.S. Swimming Association. There was no selection process.

"The coaches were exposed to a one-week educational program," said camp director Bob Steele, who is also technical director for the USSA. "We had presentations on coaching techniques and science."

Whitesides is a swim coach at the Barracuda Aquatics of the Monterey Peninsula where she coached the championship age-group team the last three seasons, and has never placed a team lower than second in the league the last nine seasons. She attended the University of California-Santa Cruz.

Miller High Life is the official sponsor of the three Olympic Training Centers located in Colorado Springs, Lake Placid, N.Y. and Northern Michigan University in Marquette, Mich. The Miller Brewing Company began funding the training centers in 1981 with an annual commitment of $1 million. Since 1981 more than 50,000 Olympic hopefuls have benefitted from Miller's sponsorship.

members at their Sept. 24 meeting by Dan Davey, manager of PG&E's Coast Valleys Division.

PG&E, along with other major corporations like IBM and Chevron, has provided ongoing contributions to the Ventana Wilderness group to bring eaglet pairs from the Vancouver Islands in Canada to the 240-acre sanctuary in the Los Padres National Forest that has been restored to revitalize and repopulate the endangered species in its native Central Coast habitat.

In addition to past monetary contributions, PG&E has provided materials for the project, including utility poles that have been used to build towers. These support cages in which the birds are first housed when they reach Anderson Canyon in the midst of the forest.

The company has also donated a freezer, used to keep food fresh for the birds, which are hand-fed until they are acclimated and released to their new environment wearing radio transmitters that allow biologists to track the eagles as they fly about their new home and hunt for their own food.

To help the on-site biologists who watch over the birds live more comfortably, Phil Furniss, a PG&E employee who volunteers much of his personal time to the project, arranged for a solar water heater to be donated, as well.

Furniss, who also serves as Ventana Wilderness Sanctuary secretary, is just one of many local PG&Eers who have donated their own personal time and funds to the project since it was begun in 1985.

Within the next few years, the group hopes to have more than a dozen eaglets released and programmed to return to the Big Sur area for nesting purposes, even though they may journey throughout the state on their long and graceful flights.

If they do make the sanctuary their permanent nesting grounds, it will be since 1933, when Highway 1 was built and Big Sur became a popular tourist spot, that bald eagles have called the Central Coast their home.

"I would love my children to be able to go to Big Sur and see eagles," Furniss explains about his fervor for the rare bird that is a symbol for the entire nation.

It is the bald eagle's symbolic importance and endangered status that makes the Ventana Wilderness project important to PG&E as well, says Davey.

"It's a corporate citizen's responsibility not only to help preserve the past, but to enliven that heritage for present and future generations so they understand its value," he says.

"As individuals, we may never have the opportunity to 'soar on the wings of eagles.' But if we are successful in our efforts to preserve the bald eagle, we can all take joy in its flight."

The Ventana Wilderness Sanctuary is a tax-exempt, non-profit wildlife breeding, rehabilitation and research center located in the Ventana Wilderness of the Los Padres National

CARMEL VALLEY COMMUNITY CENTER OFFERS BABYSITTING AND HOLIDAY CRAFT CLASSES

The Carmel Valley Community Youth Center is offering a late fall program schedule consisting of Holiday Craft Workshops for children and adults and a Safe Sitter workshop for teens.

SHAKE ROOFS need not burn or decay.

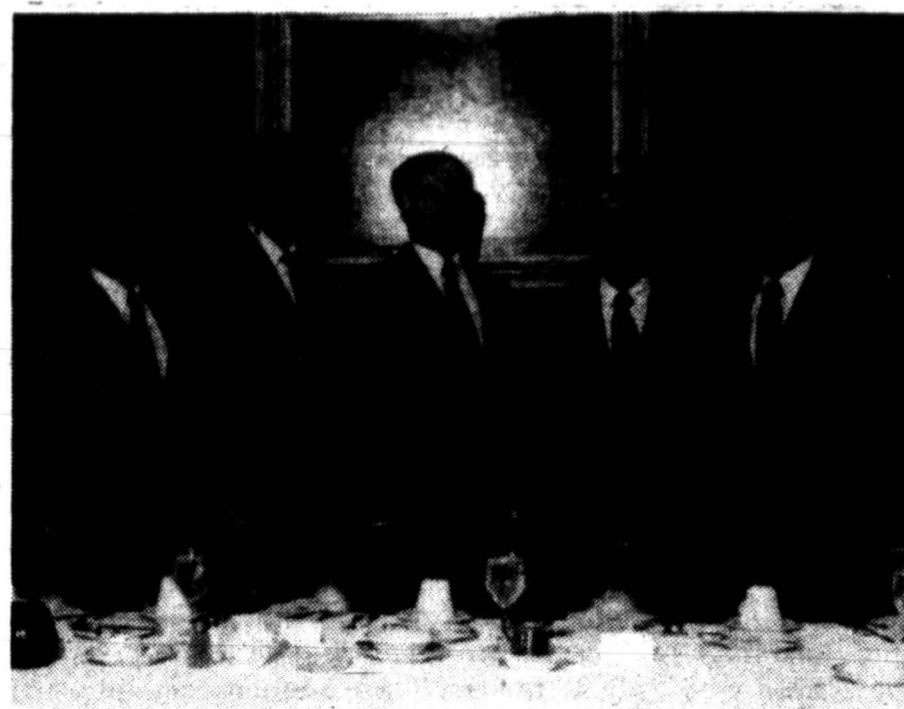

Fire officials are correct when they say wood shake or shingle roofs can be a fire hazard. It is proven that 80% of the natural oils in a shake or shingle roof leach out in five years. Shakes become like kindling wood, easily set afire as well as supporting fungus and insects. Add several years worth of leaf and pine needle accumulation and the roof is extremely susceptible to sparks from the chimney — the number one cause of roof fires. The roofs are then accidents waiting to happen as was seen with the Pebble Beach tragedy.

Much of the risk of roof fires can be minimized by preventative action. Wood roofs should be cleaned of leaves and pine needles on a regular basis. Fire retardants can be applied to existing wood roofs. One such fire retardant has been used successfully in California for over 40 years. Flame-X has been used on 35,000 homes, the equivalent of 70,000,000 square feet and has had no known roof fires. Flame-X has been extensively tested by licensed testing laboratories and has stood the test of time, both in exposure tests and actual hill brush fires. Shake Savers, Inc., headquartered in Cleveland, Ohio, has a complete dealer network in California to service the market. Shake Savers, Inc. offers a free roof analysis to any homeowner who would be interested. The Shake Savers dealers will supply product literature, test data as well as explain their coating procedures.

Shake and shingle roofs can be protected from fire, fungus and insects. If you would like additional information and the dealer nearest you, call the Shake Savers home office at 1-800-24SHAKE or write to:

HOW TO LIVE WITH A GOLFAHOLIC

By Carmel Author Mark Oman

WARNING!

The following excerpt from the new book HOW TO LIVE WITH A GOLFAHOLIC is intended solely for the private use of those who suspect they may be friends of, related to, or — heaven forbid — married to a golfaholic. In the weeks ahead you'll learn the whole sordid story; how to survive the "traps and hazards" of life with a golf lover.

More warning signs!

WHILE IT is certainly better to know the truth about one's spouse before marriage, many people don't find out until it is almost too late.

Your fiancé comes to you with an assortment of resort brochures and says you can pick where to go on your honeymoon.

You can't believe such thoughtfulness, until you discover the resorts are all conducting golf clinics that week.

On the other hand, if your betrothed wasn't quite so obvious, you may not discover the cold truth until the honeymoon itself.

You are in a luxurious romantic paradise. The fact that your handsome, hard-bodied husband can't wait to rip off his clothes—instead of yours—put on his plaid knickers, grab his spikes and race to the first tee, is only mildly upsetting.

At least with him away you will have time to rest up from the long plane trip and prepare for your first night as man and wife.

It is after dark when the man you pledged to love, honor and cherish returns to your honeymoon suite.

You are ready for him. You look like Bo Derek, Linda Evans and Diane Keaton rolled into one.

He looks like Buster Keaton. He has been humiliated by the course, betrayed by his cubs and laughed at by his 12-year-old caddie. He is physically and emotionally exhausted, wrung out, battered and bruised.

After a couple of hours of spilling his guts about every shot on every hole, he suddenly doesn't want to talk about it anymore. He wants to forget the whole thing.

"Good," you agree. Especially since it is now 9 p.m. You suggest he slip into something less color-coordinated and you will go to dinner.

You arrive at the restaurant looking ravishing and receive admiring glances from Tom Selleck at the bar.

This is obviously a Four-Star establishment.

Too bad your beloved is behaving like a Five-Star putz.

He glares glassy-eyed into his soup, dropping in crouton after crouton—another water hazard to dump balls into.

He picks at his salad, heart sick over the greens that got away.

He's lost his appetite.

You try to arouse a new one. You caress your carrots, devour the succulent flesh of your lobster, seduce your chocolate souffle...

He "tops" his sirloin, "bogeys" his baked potato and "shanks" his sherbert "out of bounds" into his lap.

He has a headache and wants to leave.

Back at the room his mind is still reeling. He sheds his clothes and crawls under the warm and protecting covers.

You come out of the powder room in your Frederick's of Hollywood hot pajamas. The man you have chosen as your one and only is dead to the world asleep.

You've had it. You grab your lover's balls, clubs and bag and put them where they belong—in bed with him.

You sit in a chair watching as your darkest fears come to light.

Your husband snuggles into the soft belly of his leather bag, droops a comforting arm around the head of his putter and sighs in blissful surrender.

All is forgiven. By him!

The next day the weather turns dark and nasty. You turn bright and hopeful! You are willing to forgive and forget, particularly when the wind and rain become so fierce that the two of you will have to stay inside all day. Together. Alone.

Sweet victory is about to be yours. Your husband seems ready to forget his backswing and concentrate on yours!

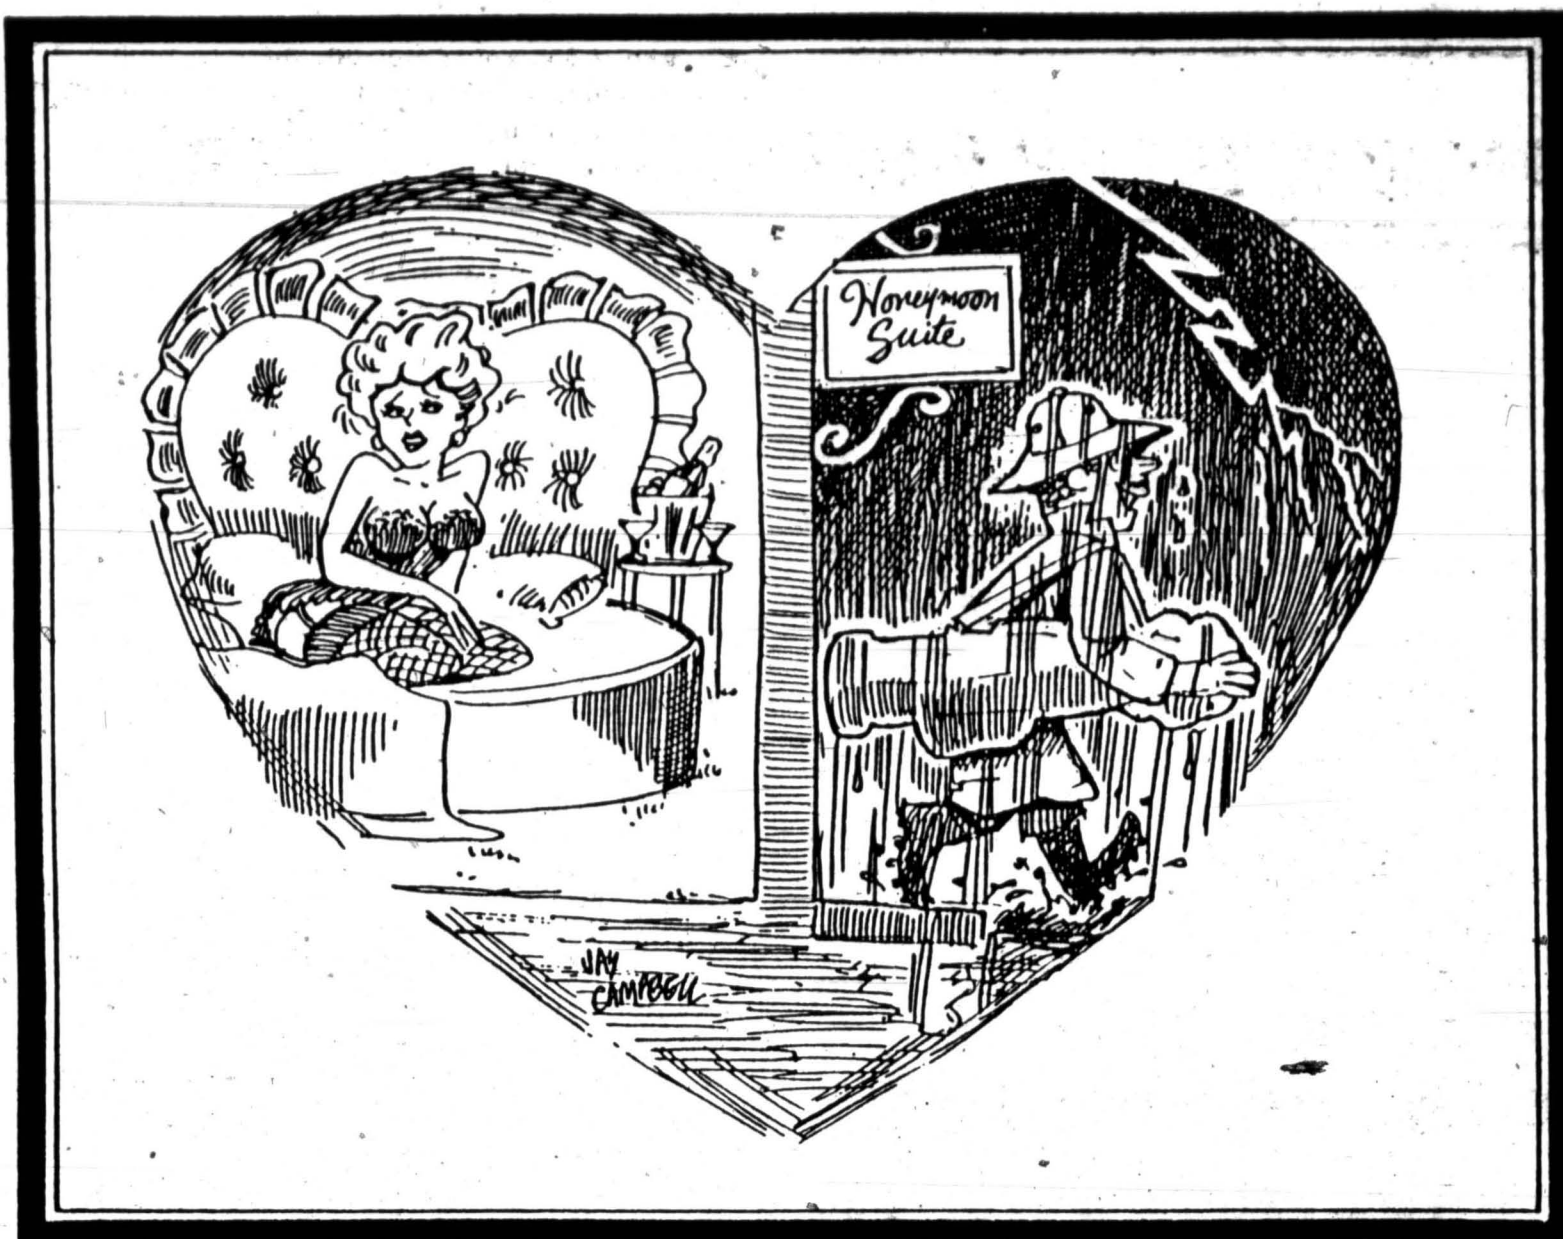

He's ready all right. To forget the honeymoon!

If he can't play golf and has to stay inside, what the hell are the two of you supposed to do all day?

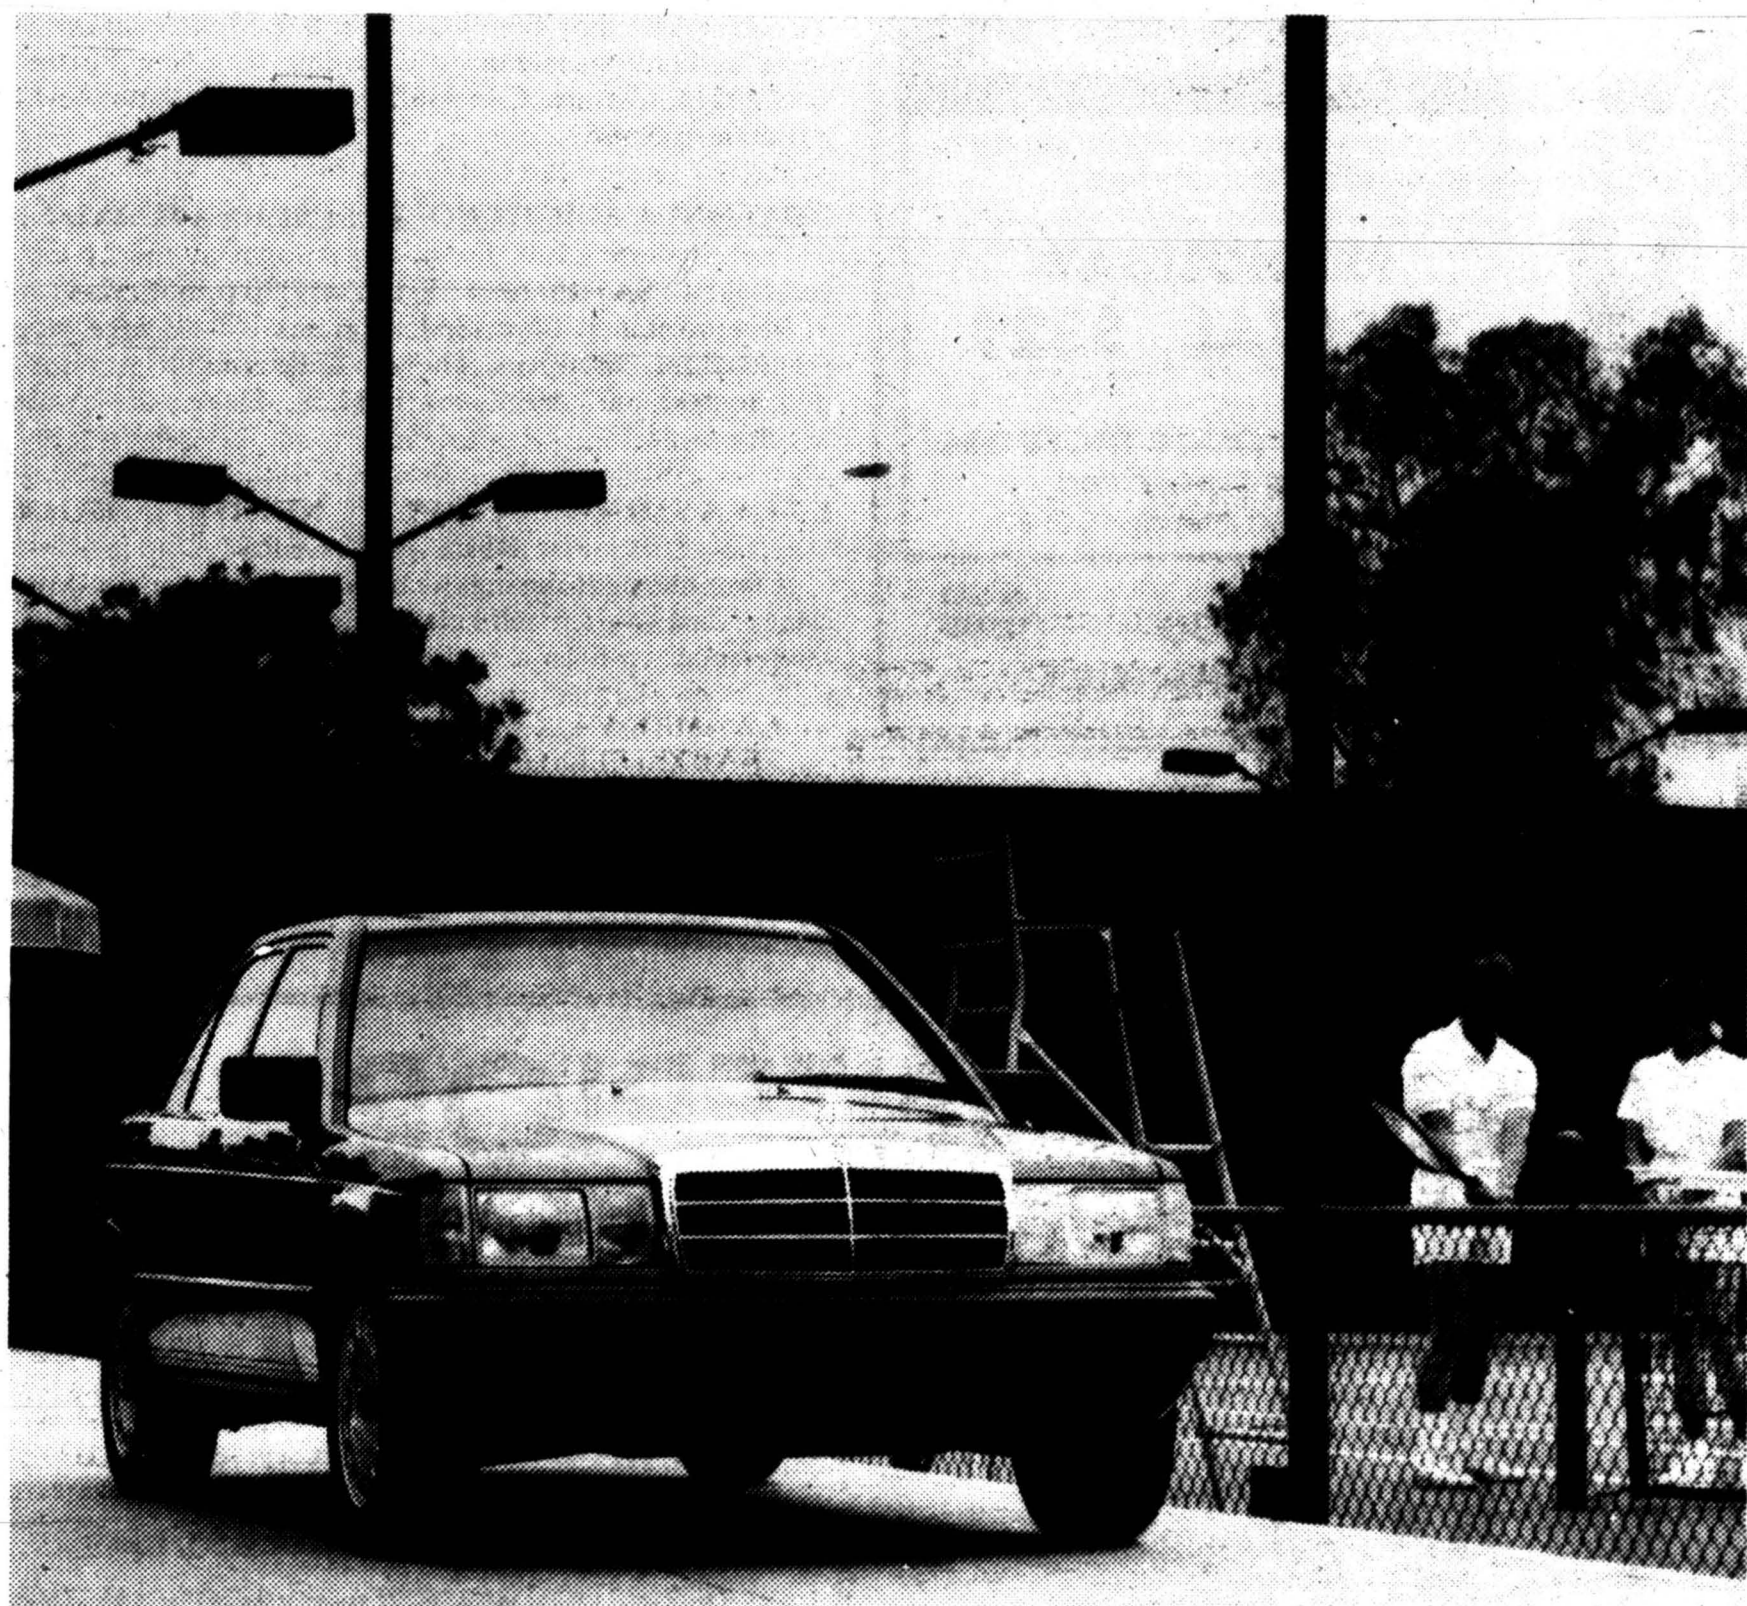

After all, what's a honeymoon without golf?

Now, if any of the above hits uncomfortably close to home, stay tuned...

The worst is yet to come!

WHAT'S A HONEYMOON WITHOUT GOLF??

PEACE ACTIVIST, ACADEMY AWARD WINNER TO ADDRESS NEW FORUM

Vivienne Verdon-Roe will speak at The New Forum's monthly luncheon on Monday, Nov. 16, at noon at the Lodge at Pebble Beach.

Verdon-Roe received an Oscar for 1987's Best Documentary Short Subject titled Women For America - For The World. In 1982, after seeing the The Last Epidemic, a film on the medical consequences of nuclear war, she joined The Freeze as a full-time volunteer. There Verdon-Roe began to wonder whether children worried about nuclear war as much as adults. Using a questionnaire developed by a psychologist at Harvard University, she began interviewing children at playgrounds and schools. The results were published in East-West Journal.

This article was read by the producer of The Last Epidemic, Ian Thiermann who contacted Verdon-Roe. Ultimately, four films later, having received two Academy Award nominations and one Oscar, Vivienne Verdon-Roe is on tour for peace.

Reservations for Vivienne Verdon-Roe's lecture: "Activists For America - For The World" and the luncheon are $13 and must be made in advance by writing: The New Forum, P.O. Box 22214, Carmel, CA 93922, or by calling The New Forum office at 625-9967.

The Golden Years

By Myles Williams

People fear growing old because they anticipate physical disabilities, financial problems and loss of independence, says Powell Lawton, director of research at the Philadelphia Geriatrics Center. At age 85, he stressed, people have about an equal chance of being disabled or not being disabled. "But even despite the illnesses," he stated, "the majority of people find that it is tolerable."

Are you eligible to receive food stamps? It's estimated that 40 percent of people entitled to stamps never apply for them. This seems to be due to a lack of knowledge about eligibility or a feeling that these are "handouts," instead of entitlements. The Committee for Food and Shelter and the Advertising Council offer a free pamphlet explaining food stamps called "How to Keep Mealtimes From Being Tough Times." To obtain a copy, call the 24-hour, toll-free hotline at 1-800-453-4000.

FATHER FARRELL'S WISDOM

All about compassion

A recent article stated that the novelist James A. Michener had just celebrated his 75th birthday. Since I had mine I feel that I can relate to him in a special way. Michener did not know his parents.

He was taken in by a Mrs. Michener, a poor widow who looked after orphans. She was kind, generous and she loved classic literature. She kindled in him a desire to learn.

Michener tells us that at an early age he discovered this great truth that all men are brothers. Holding to this principle he was able to project himself into the life of a black slave in Maryland, an immigrant in Colorado, an Israeli in Tel Aviv. He said: "A man who does not know his parents cannot afford to laugh at a Jew, a Catholic, a black or a Mexican. He might very well be one of them."

Oh Lord, help us to practice that same kind of compassion. So many of us talk about tolerance but so few of us put it into practice. Amen.

'Pennies from Heaven' shown

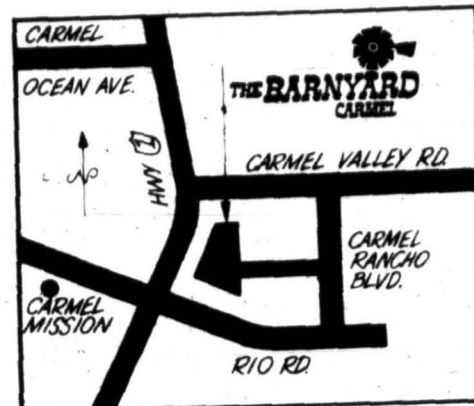

Bing Crosby, Madge Evans and Louis Armstrong co-star in Pennies from Heaven. The 1936 musical is the Thursday, Nov. 19 offering of Brown Bag Cinema.

Admission to the film is free. Those who wish may meet at noon and consume their lunch on the terrace outside the Chapman Room at Sunset Center is Carmel. Sunset Center provides the coffee.

The film will begin at 1 p.m. in the Sunset Center Theater, San Carlos at Ninth, Carmel. In case of inclement weather, lunch will be taken inside the Chapman Room. For details, call 624-3996.

Metropolitan Opera basso Morris performs

JAMES MORRIS, one of the youngest ever to sing starring bass roles with the Metropolitan Opera, will present a recital at the Sunset Theater in METROPOLITAN OPERA basso James Morris will appear in recital on Friday, Nov. 13. The concert, presented at Sunset Theater in Carmel, is sponsored by the Carmel Music Society. Tickets are $12. For additional information, call 625-9938.

Carmel on Friday, Nov. 13, at 8 p.m. The event is sponsored by the Carmel Music Society.

Morris, born in Baltimore, began at the Met at the age of 23, the youngest male on the Metropolitan Opera roster. He has since starred there as Don Giovanni and Mozart's Figaro. He has sung the roles of Wotan, Boris Godunov, Mephistopheles in Faust, and an astonishing variety of other leading roles, singing opposite such greats as Luciano Pavarotti and Joan Sutherland.

He has also performed with opera companies in Europe and both North and South America and with symphony orchestras including those of New York, Atlanta and Chicago, and with the Soviet Emigre Orchestra in Carnegie Hall.

Critics have called his voice "a dark bass-baritone of unstinting richness and suavity," "rich and resonant," and "a sumptuous rolling basso of resonance and dynamic range."

His range is remarkable. Connoisseur magazine in October of this year, carried an article of extravagant praise including the comment of Richard Trimbom of the Bavarian State Opera in Munich, that "Morris has the most beautiful baritone voice now living."

In his Carmel appearance on Nov. 13, he will sing several arias by Handel, Verdi and Mozart, and songs by Richard Strauss, Jacques Ibert and J. Duke. The Duke songs are based on poems from "Spoon River Anthology" by Edwin Arlington Robinson.

Performing with James Morris will be Richard Foster, pianist. Foster has been vocal coach and accompanist for some of the greatest voices of our time including Licia Albanese, Eleanor Steber, Sherrill Milnes, Renata Scotto and, for several years, James Morris. In addition to vocal coaching in his New York studio and touring as a pianist throughout the world, he also teaches voice and opera at the University of Hartford.

Advance tickets for the event will be available at Center Stage Ticketing, 467

Alvarado St., Monterey, at the Do Re Mi Music shop in The Barnyard, and Bartlett Music, Dolores Avenue and Fifth, Carmel. Seats will also be available at the box office on the evening of the performance. All seats are $12.

For further information, call the Carmel Music Society, 625-9938.

Organists travel to P.G. 'Butterfly Church' for Monarch Concert Series

By ANNE PAPINEAU

WHEN THE First United Methodist Church moved from Lighthouse Avenue in Pacific Grove to its site on 17-Mile Drive 23 years ago, the decades-old Harris organ went with it. The beauty of the forest setting and the quality of this instrument inspired the creation of a classical music series that highlights both.

The Monarch Concert series will begin its third season with a Sunday, Nov. 15 concert by organist Lynn Jemison-Renner and flutist Ray Fabrizio. As in previous years, most of the concerts begin at 4 in the afternoon to best showcase the effect of sunlight streaming through the distinctive windows of the "Butterfly Church." The church is located on Sunset Avenue at 17-Mile Drive in Pacific Grove.

"We have an organ we feel is worth hearing," observes choir director John Farr of Carmel. He is now retired from a 30-year career spent teaching music in Carmel schools.

"That organ speaks beautifully," he adds. "This is a bright sanctuary with lots of windows and the pipe organ is bright sounding."

For nine years Judy Midgley has served as organist at the First United Methodist Church. In 1985 she and Farr founded the Monarch Concert Series.

"I think it was a kind of dream of John Farr's; I am a great admirer of his," notes Midgley, a Pebble Beach resident. "We just got together and discussed the fact that we have a beautiful building and a beautiful instrument. We wanted to somehow bring these to the attention of the public, and make organ literature more familiar to the public."

Five concerts scheduled between now and May 1988 will do just that. The Monarch Concert Series draws organists from around the West Coast. A returnee this season is James Welch of Santa Barbara, who will perform in concert Sunday, April 10, 1988.

For the first time a European is scheduled to perform. Marek Kudlicki of Austria will be making a U.S. concert tour, and has been convinced to appear in Pacific Grove May 6, 1988 as part of the Monarch Concert Series.

"We leave the repertoire entirely up to the artist," explains Farr. "After two seasons virtually no selection has been repeated, since much organ literature is little known."

CO-STARRING with these soloists is the Harris organ itself. According to an organ history provided by Farr, the instrument was first played in the original Methodist Church in downtown Pacific Grove. The church was constructed in the 1880s, and the organ was installed about 1912.

The new church was built in 1963-64, and the organ was moved there. It was remodeled and rebuilt with electro-pneumatic action by Swain and Kates, Inc., of San Francisco. This work was overseen by then-church organist, the late Fred Lewis.

Recently the organ has been brought up to modern pitch and three stops have been added. The old relay action has been changed to a transistorized action.

Today the soloists play a three-manual full-pedal organ with 20 ranks of speaking pipes, resulting in a total of 1,287 pipes. It is also wired into a two-octave Schumirick electronic chime and bell system. This system is played through outside speakers weekdays at 11:45 a.m. for the enjoyment of the community.

According to church organist Judy Midgley, "The uniqueness to me as an organist is all of the pipes are enclosed in chambers. Carmel Mission, for example, has several ranks of pipes outside the organ chambers. Here you have a greater variation in sound and tonal quality because you control it by the opening and closing of shutters on these chambers."

"The same rank of pipes can sound like a trumpet, but can sound bombastic and triumphant with the chambers open or soft with the chambers closed," Midgley says.

The organist also reserves praise for the Butterfly Church itself.

"The acoustics in the building are absolutely outstanding," she notes. "I have never heard finer. The softest sound can carry to the back. And the setting is so

TWO YEARS ago choral director John Farr and church organist Judy Midgley launched the Monarch Concert Series at the First United Methodist Church in Pacific Grove. The third season of the series opens Sunday,

CRITIC AT LARGE

By Mac McDonald

Refined revelry

THE PEOPLE responsible for those crazy bacchanals on Carmel rooftops are at it again.

But this time the culprits are responsible for an entirely different sort of revelry, more refined and cultured, substituting beer and barbecue for riesling and roast duckling. And then there's the music: instead of rock 'n' roll and endless takes of La Bamba, (which were perfect for the atmosphere), there's the mellifluous magic of Mozart (and Schubert and Strauss).

Csaba Ajan, general manager of Quail Lodge (and The Covey and On the Park Bar & Grill), and Ed Haber (owner of same), brought us what might have been Carmel's first-ever rooftop theme party every Friday evening at On the Park Bar & Grill across from Devendorf Park. It was a phenomenon that had longtime Carmelites shaking their heads in disbelief and newer ones marvelling that there really is a nightlife in Carmel. Themes ranged from Jim and Tammy Bakker parties to Ollie North bashes, tributes to Elvis and Richie Valens, and soirees to honor peninsula events such as the Concours d'Elegance and polo matches. And the joint was jumpin'.

Now Ajan and company have brought another unique event to the area, what they're calling "Mozart at The Covey," an evening at The Covey restaurant in Carmel Valley featuring the music of Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart and the cuisine of The Covey's executive chef Bob Williamsom, and it's an inspired pairing.

The first evening (Nov. 4) was subtitled "An Evening in Vienna" and not only showcased music from the Vienna of the late-1700s — as performed by the impeccable Bay Quartet, but a five-course dinner based on meals served during that era — as performed by Williamsom.

The Viennese dinner featured four different wines and five course, the centerpieces being an incredible trout filet with salmon mousse with sour cream sauce and breast of roast duckling with apricot stuffing (or as it also states in the menu: Steirische Entenbrust Mit Aprikoten).

And all the while The Bay Quartet, which held court in the center of the restaurant, entranced diners with Mozart, Schubert and a perfectly apropos, Strauss (even though his music was from the mid-1800s, who's going to quibble?).

Subsequent evenings will feature Hungarian cuisine and the music of The Monterey String Quartet, "An Evening in Budapest" (Nov. 18); French cuisine and the music of The Allegra Quartet, "An Evening in Versailles" (Dec. 2); and Russian cuisine and a return engagement by The Bay quartet, "An Evening in St. Petersburg" (Dec. 9).

It's such a simple, elegant, yet effective idea that you wonder why it hasn't been done in this area on this scale before. It also makes you wonder what's going to spring from the fertile mind of Csaba Ajan again...Mozart on the rooftops anyone?

I HEREBY propose a moratorium on the use of the word "fatal" in a movie title before it gets out of hand.

So far we've got Fatal Attraction and Fatal Beauty. How many other Fatal (fill in the blanks) are there going to be in the coming year?

I would also like to warn you that a trend may have started with Fatal Attraction. We've already seen a TV movie with the title Dangerous Affection, also about the hazards of male-female relationships in the '80s. What's next, Perilous Passion, Hazardous Ardor, Sinister Endearment, Precarious Attachment, Menacing Desire? I predict there will be a veritable rash of these movies coming out in the next year and a half, and no amount of talcum powder is going to get rid of them. When Hollywood jumps on the bandwagon, it does so with both feet.

Remember, you heard it here first.

MUSIC CORNER

By Jo Ann La Torra

Concert boasts high quality

THE UNIVERSITY of California at Santa Cruz sent us a gift last weekend, a splendid violin-piano due recital, as part of its Outreach program. Since it was underwritten by UCSC, it was ridiculously cheap (less than $5 a ticket). So what went wrong? The Music Hall at Monterey Peninsula College was approximately one-third filled on Sunday afternoon. Is it true we think concerts cannot possibly be good if they are free or low cost? Well, think again.

Pianist Sylvia Jenkins and violinist Roy Malan collaborated in an interesting and well-played program. They opened with a little-known sonata by the greatly underrated Czech composer, Leos Janacek. Little by little, his music is being heard here, starting with the operas, surely some of the best of the 20th century. His life spans the end of the Romantic period, and into the decade of the 12 tones (he died in 1928). But Janacek espoused no isms. Although basically Romantic in concept, his music is free of excessive chromaticism that put an end to Romanticism. It is thoroughly tonal, but the tonalities do not follow the major-minor clichés. We are forced into calling them "modal," though this is not strictly accurate.

Whatever label we ultimately hang on this music, it is original, intense, personal. The Sonata is in four movements, with a vague reference to so-called sonata form here and there. Since it ends with a slow movement, it messes up the text-book definition anyway. It is lyrical and rhapsodic, with some unusual sound from the instruments, especially the piano. Jenkins and Malan gave a truly masterful performance of the work.

Beethoven's Seventh Sonata, Op. 30, No. 2, followed. The work is in C minor, supposed to be Beethoven's tragic key, but this one belies the theory. This was an exuberant period for Beethoven, and this sonata has it all. The duo was as energetic and extroverted here as they had been controlled and inward in Janacek, exhibiting an admirable stylistic sense.

The second half of the program was devoted to the popular D major Sonata, Op. 94, of Prokofieff. I have grown very weary of this piece, so it is understandable that it did not touch me the same way that the other two sonatas had. Their reading of it stressed the aggressive aspects over the lyrical, certainly a viable approach, but not particularly attractive to me. But there was little to fault in their execution.

Molan is a very impressive violinist — excellent intonation, beautiful bow technique, generally lovely tone. Jenkins is a fine pianist; if there is any criticism of her playing, it is a tendency to angularity, a lack of nuance. But it is very possible that she was fighting the piano in that area. Nevertheless, the overall impression is of a superior ensemble.

UCSC has sent us other gifts — from the Baroque Festival, for example. It is time we start to appreciate them, lest they disappear.

Senegalese troupe to dance in Carmel

THE NATIONAL Dance Company of Senegal will perform Tuesday, Nov. 17 in Sunset Theater, Carmel. Christian commentary studied

HOW INSIGHTS from psychology help deepen and broaden all religious belief systems will be discussed at 7 p.m. on Friday, Nov. 13 at All Saints' Church, Ninth and Dolores, Carmel. The event is sponsored by the Monterey Peninsula Friends of C.G. Jung. It is the fifth in the "Bringing Books to Life" series and will be based on The Christian Archetype- A Jungian Commentary on the Life of Christ, by Edward F. Edinger, M.D., Jungian analyst practicing in Los Angeles.

Questions regarding parallels between Jung's concept of the individuation process and Christ's life will be pursued, especially in the light of his comment: "What happens in the life of Christ happens always and everywhere. In the Christian archetype all lives are prefigured." This because when the individuation process befalls a person, it may lead to salvation or calamity -- or both. The book provides an ordered and graphic amplification of the whole archetypal process.

Charts, illustrations and passages from the book will be available to participants. These will serve to spark both large and small group discussions to achieve individual learnings.

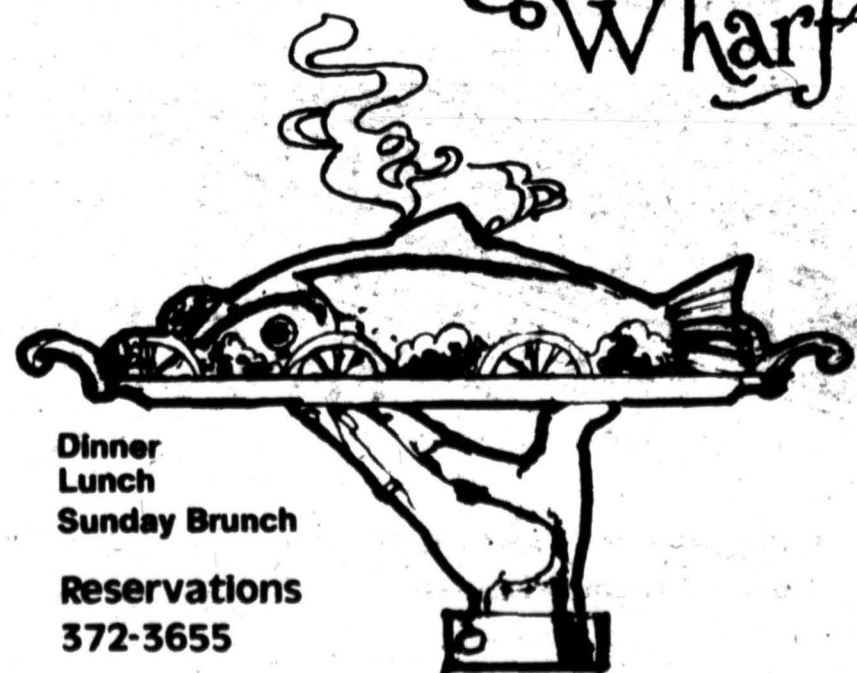

Leading the discussion of this book will be the Rev. Jeffrey P. Cave, associate rector of All Saints' Church. Assisting as book reviewer will be Joseph Pagano of Monterey.

The public is invited to attend this and all other offerings of the Friends of C.G. Jung. This is an informal group of people who share an enthusiasm for the seminal ideas of the noted Swiss psychologist.

Best of new animation celebrated at college

"THE RAISINS are Coming....the Raisins are Coming!" And so are many other startling clay animated characters in The Festival of Claymation, a feature-length film from the Academy Award winner Will Vinton which opens at Monterey Peninsula College Friday and Saturday, Nov. 13 and 14 at 8 p.m.

Vinton is best known for his current series of commercials for California Raisins (the conga line singing "I Heard It Through the Grapevine"), the John Fogerty music video, "Vanz Kant Danz" and several Academy Award-winning shorts.

Headlining The Festival of Claymation are two of Vinton's newest and most hilarious creations, Rex and Herb, two quarreling film critics who happen to be dinosaurs (a clever parody of TV's movie critics). Rex and Herb appear throughout the film commenting on the shorts and offering stinging insights.

Other films included in the Festival are the award winning shorts "The Great Congnito," "Dinosaur," "Legacy," "The Christmas Gift," plus rare treats and special surprises.

"Claymation" is a painstaking technique in which clay-sculptured figures are changed 24 times for each second of finished film. In addition, specially designed sets and characters have to be built, carefully lighted and photographed to achieve the overall effect. Judging from the effect of Vinton's commercials for California Raisins, the master animator from Oregon has reached a vast new audience unaccustomed to such realism and whimsy.

Vinton explains that "Clay is a superior substance for animation, one which is malleable and doesn't harden. Characters can show a range of emotions as well as change from one shape into another."

The show takes place in the MPC main theater at 8 both nights. Admission is $4 per person.

ART NOTES

By Sam Colburn

The embrace of the sea

MOST OF us have felt the embrace of the sea. Not those, of course, who live in the High Country, or the plains states, or a large part of the South; which does indeed mean most of our land, and those living inland any place on Earth. One does not forget that first immersion in the ocean. It happened to me in Southern California. This led to many encounters. When I visited Carmel in 1926, I went into the water, stayed there about 10 minutes, and spent one half hour in the tub at the Pine Inn trying to get warm.

You may ask what does this have to do with art? I guess it was the Duke of Hawaii who started the current surfboard madness. I will not try to write his name as I am not sure of the spelling. He had a big, long board. If you go to the Monterey Bay Aquarium by Nov. 29, you can see how the surfboard has evolved. It has a form of beauty. Many of them are designed by the surfers themselves. You will see the old boards, almost as big as boats, and weighing up to 100 pounds.

Years ago riding the waves was done with the body. This meant catching the wave as it was about to break, holding the body rigid and straight with the arms back against the body and the hands palms downward. The head was held on the same line, and you felt rather than saw where you were going.

It is true that you could rent surfboards. They were short, made of wood, and very liable to sudden diving or cracking you on the head. We body surfers were an elite group who scorned these contraptions.

ONE DOES NOT often see a show made up entirely of prints. The Pacific Grove Art Center is presenting an International Exchange Exhibition by the Printmakers Council of Great Britain, the California Society of Printmakers and the Los Angeles Printmaking Society which will be on view through Nov. 27.

This is a collection of prints that covers the entire wall space of the Center. I think that all the techniques available to graphic artists have been used. The images presented are immensely varied, but are for the most part abstract.

When I first looked at this show there were no titles. The first work on the right as you enter the David Henry Gill Gallery presents several female figures. I would say that it is about death. One very sharply rendered print is "Rich Kitchen, Poor Kitchen" by Jane Gregorius. I think that the analogy is quite extreme, but the impact on the eye is terrific. This is a silkscreen monotype.

In the hallway to the right is a black and white of tied up paper bundles. It shows what can be done with mundane material. "Platform No. 2" by Eric Bates is an etching and monotype. It conveys a feeling of anonymity. Very strong and very dramatic is a silkscreen-lithograph, which is loosely done. It is entitled, "Woman and the Looking Glass." In the room which is normally the photographic salon I liked "Kimono V," in which very rich detail is contained in one shape. Right next to it is P.M. Bowler's "Animal Carpet" which is a color etching — very subtle and quiet. For color and subtle form I was very pleased by a piece entitled, "Quelquefois Je Sera Le Besoin Des Images a La Place Des Mots" by Daniele Desplan. In the line of mixed media is "The Inventor of Images." This work looks more like a collage than a print. To my eye this exhibition is perhaps the finest that I have seen at the Pacific Grove Art Center.

EVERY YEAR the Pacific Grove Museum of Natural History presents a showing of paintings in any aqueous media. This, in effect, is pretty much confined to watercolor. There are two acrylic paintings in this current exhibit, both by Carolyn Berry. Her forms are interesting as is her use of the space.

One small watercolor by Joan Savo simply glows. It is called "African Shaman." If there is a trend in this show it is toward small pictures, indeed the Best of Show is the tiny "Waterfront" by Andres Morillo. It carries very well. The medium achieves clarity in "Sunburned Hills" by Helen Traeger. "Cypress Reverie" by Terry Baker is a beautifully disciplined watercolor that also has feeling. I always enjoy what Frieda Golding does as her paintings always have sparkle and delicacy. The rodeo has always been great subject matter. It is not easy to see it down in any medium. "Rodeo" by Edwin Adamson is effective. The performance is there, out in the sunshine. You don't see the people in the grandstand at first, but they emerge, almost as a separate picture. May I also mention "Negative Spaces" by Phillip Bleicher. It is very hard to maintain values in a large work like this, but he does it very well. This exhibit is on the walls through Dec. 6.

AS I SEE Susan Reith in study groups, I know how hard she has worked, and I think her one-woman show at the Carmel Art Association shows it. It is her color and the use of the space that intrigues me. These are oil on paper. She does not use customary devices to achieve roundness or indeed, depth. Most of these pieces involve single figures or are still lifes. There is a simplicity in the use of the space that reminds me of Matisse. Her patterning is varied. She paints in areas of cool color against which the warm pigments really sing out. She is also showing several small watercolors.

In the center room of the Carmel Art Association are hung the watercolors of Dorothy Bigger. She is an outdoor painter. There is variety in her handling of space. This is shown in "Grasses" and in "Jeweled Waters." "Flight of Flowers" has a core of cool color against which warm pigments really vibrate. I like the overall patterning in several of these paintings. She can achieve depth as is evident in "Sunny Window." Although this work may be a bit more representational there are intriguing designs. Her "Picnic at Little Sur" is a different approach. It is a small painting, but the feeling of an opening to the sea is achieved through her use of light against dark.

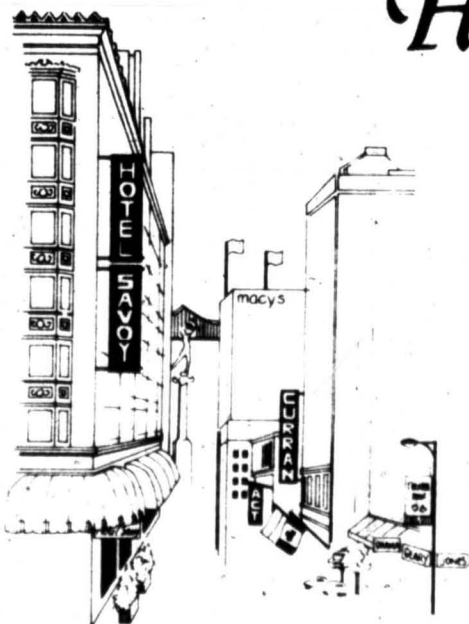

Both the works of Susan Reith and Dorothy Bigger will be shown through Dec. 2.

Historic instrument stars in Pacific Grove concert series beautiful in that sanctuary. To sit there on an afternoon amongst the trees and the setting sun that time of day, with the butterfly windows out front, it's really a beautiful building."

The organ bears a plaque dedicating it to the memory of Carol Moore Turner, who was the organist at the time the organ was installed in the old church. She served in that capacity for many years.

"Most of the guest artists love the instrument," states Midgley. "They feel a freedom that they often don't find in other instruments because of this versatility that I mentioned before. This instrument is conducive to contemporary pieces as well as Bach."

Last year the series successfully introduced programs featuring more than one artist. The 1987-88 season will thus feature two concerts with two performers.

The opening concert on Nov. 15 will feature Lynn Jemison-Renner, organist, and Ray Fabrizio, flute. Jemison-Renner is music director and organist for St. John's Chapel in Monterey. She is also opera coach for Opera San Jose and West Bay Opera and music director for the Hartnell College Community Chorus.

Ray Fabrizio is principal flutist with the Sunriver Music Festival and the Monterey Bay Symphony. He is a member of the Monterey Peninsula College faculty and is founder and teaching assistant of the Julius Baker Master Class at Hidden Valley Music Seminars.

The Monarch Concert Series season schedule continues with the following performances:

- Friday, Feb. 5, 1988, 8 p.m., Judy Midgley, organist; Monterey Bay String Quartet;

- Sunday, March 6, 1988, 4 p.m., Allen Blaisdale, organist;
- Sunday, April 10, 1988, 4 p.m., James Welch, organist;
- Friday, May 6, 1988, 8 p.m., Marek Kudlicki, organist.

Season tickets will be available at the door and are $20, $15 for senior citizens, the military and students.

Individual concert tickets are $7, $5 for senior citizens, military and students.

For additional information about the Monarch Concert Series, call 372-5875.

Journalist/author signs newest book in Carmel

Award-winning photojournalist and author Robert Wenkam will be the guest of the Thunderbird Bookshop on Saturday, Nov. 14 from 12:30 to 2:30 p.m. at a reception for his most recent book, The Edge of Fire.

Robert Wenkam's The Edge of Fire introduces the latest scientific concepts of plate tectonics, seismic disturbances and volcanology. It features more than 100 color photographs that capture the geological story of the west coast of Central and North America. History, lore and legend about volcanoes and earthquakes, from Polynesian tales of Pele, the fire goddess, to the more recent cult surrounding Mount Shasta, are chronicled.

Wenkam's photos depict the grandeur of the landscapes created by powerful geological forces and the danger communities located near active faults and volcanoes face. These photographs demonstrate what Wenkam calls the "Beauty and the Beast." He says, "The dramatic beauty of volcanoes and earthquake country hides the danger."

Wenkam has contributed articles and photographs to Sunset, Life, National Geographic and Time magazines. He has written 12 other books including Kauai and the Park Country of Hawaii, New England and Maui No Ka Oi. Permanent collections of his photographs are held by the New York Museum of Modern Art and the Victoria and Albert Museum in London.

Wenkam is an active environmentalist. He has served as Hawaii State Land Use Commissioner and was the organizer and first chairman of the Hawaii Chapter of the Sierra Club. He is currently a director of the citizens advisory committee for the proposed Mojave Desert National Park.

The Thunderbird Bookshop is located in the Barnyard at Highway 1 and Carmel Valley Road.

For more information call 624-1803.

CITY OF CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA CITY COUNCIL

ORDINANCE NO. 87-26

AN ORDINANCE AMENDING SECTION 17.14.072 OF THE MUNICIPAL CODE ESTABLISHING A BOUNDARY FOR THE SIGNIFICANT COMMUNITY LAND USE OVERLAY.

WHEREAS, the General Plan encourages quality, resident-oriented businesses which serve the day-to-day needs of the local community and directs the City to allow such uses in all areas of the Commercial District; and

WHEREAS, the Planning Commission and the City Council have studied a request to allow an existing stationery store to relocate to a property located in the Residential Limited Commercial Land Use District and to occupy both a first and a second floor on the proposed site; and

WHEREAS, Section 17.10.040 of the Municipal Code would generally prohibit the establishment of a second floor retail use in the Residential Limited Commercial Land Use District; and

WHEREAS, a special procedure was created through Ordinance No. 87-24 to allow certain provisions of the Land Use Code to be modified in order to assist in the preservation of land uses of significant benefit to the community; and

WHEREAS, the Planning Commission has conducted a public hearing and has adopted findings in Resolution No. 87-50 determining Spencers Stationery store to be a Significant Community Land Use and warranting the use of the SCLU Overlay process;

NOW, THEREFORE, the City Council of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea does hereby ordain as follows:

Section One. The existing text of Section 17.14.072 of the Municipal Code shall be amended by including a Subsection A following the existing text to read as follows:

A. A Full-line stationery store is identified as a Significant Community Land Use on the near east portion of Lot 10 in block 74 located near the east side of Monte Verde Street between Ocean Avenue and Seventh Avenue.

Section Two. EFFECTIVE DATES. This ordinance shall become effective thirty (30) days after final adoption by the City Council. The effective date of the boundary created by this ordinance shall be the same date as the effective date of a use permit granted pursuant to the Provisions of 17.14.073. If no use permit is granted within six months of the adoption of this ordinance, all provisions of this ordinance shall become void and of no further force or effect.

Section Three. SUNSET PROVISION. At any time that the Significant Community Land Use identified by this ordinance ceases to exist on the property identified above in Section One, the boundary established by this ordinance shall terminate, and have no further force or effect nor shall any of the rights, privileges or benefits established by this ordinance be retained by the property. This Sunset Provision shall be self-executing and shall not require any further action by ordinance or resolution to take effect.

Section Four. VIOLATIONS. Any person, firm or corporation, whether as principal or agent, employee or otherwise, violating or causing or permitting the violation of the provisions of this ordinance is guilty of an infraction. Any part of any building erected contrary to the provisions of this ordinance is hereby declared to be unlawful and a public nuisance and the City Attorney shall, upon order of the City Council, immediately commence action for the abatement or removal thereof. Should any person, firm or corporation violate the terms of this ordinance and any action is authorized by the City Council or the City Attorney or is in fact filed for said violations, no other actions shall be taken on any application filed by or on behalf of said person, firm or corporation until the litigation has been resolved. Any land use established in reliance on the provisions of Article II of Chapter 14 shall be reviewed every six months to assure compliance with the use permit authorizing the exercise of the Significant Land Use Overlay provisions.

Section Five. SEVERABILITY. If any part of this ordinance found is unenforceable, such finding shall not affect the enforceability of any other part.

Section Six. EFFECTIVE DATE. This ordinance shall take effect thirty (30) days after final adoption of this ordinance.

LOCATION, LOCATION

When HUGH COMSTOCK was commissioned to build the original portion of this home, an ideal site was chosen - 1 block from the BEACH providing an OCEAN VIEW. When the present owners modified and expanded it sometime later - the addition enhanced it and provided an extra large living room and 3 bedrooms, 2 baths. That was some 27 years ago. A new owner may want to further modify and update... and it's worth the cost and effort. Check out the values of the surrounding neighborhood and compare with our offering price of $460,000.

So you want to see The Mission...

There's a long standing argument in the real estate industry about whether a house for sale is more attractive with or without furniture in place. The extraordinary house at 2957 Franciscan Way may help answer that question.

It's empty...unless you count the luxurious carpeting, the attractive draperies, the high level appliances in the kitchen, the beveled glass windows, mirrored closet doors, beautifully papered dining room and bathrooms, shower curtains and verdant planting.

Briefly put, this is a Monterey Colonial, two stories with heavy stucco on the lower level and wide horizontal siding on the second story. The roof is heavy shakes. A broad covered balcony spans the house on the second level, and a slate colored terrace lies below it on the first. A lion's-head knocker dominates the front door, a beautiful chandelier hangs above the 2-story circular stair that leads up from the entrance, and a similar fixture lights the dining room. Two wide dormers face south from living and dining rooms, there's a greenhouse window in the kitchen, and a gratuitous little deck off the master suite over the private inside patio.

You should have been here for the Pope's visit. Franciscan Way is a strange and wonderful little street that begins at Santa Lucia and circles around to Dolores. It's high, and from the balcony you look across one course of roofs to the Mission Tower and the expansive tile covering the Basilica. If you lift your eyes, you go on up the mountains to the Fish Ranch, and left to the wild terrain that marks the Carmel Valley. Look right, and you'll see Pt. Lobos thrusting its rugged profile into the Bay.

Look out in any direction from this house, and you're rewarded. You'll see houses of English style, comfortable little gardens, brick walls, a Swiss chalet. You've got to believe this neighborhood was the result of either (a) tight architectural control, or (b) great good luck. All of Carmel should be like this.

Nuts and bolts: 2300 sq. ft., lot 63 feet wide by 95 feet deep, 4 bedrooms, 3 baths, 2-car garage, around 40 years old and completely updated, in superb condition. Price: $495,000.

CARMEL LEGENDS

No. 41

Probably one of the reasons we feel vaguely uncomfortable with GEORGE STERLING is he did, he actually did, what most of us always wanted to do. After commuting for 15 years by ferry from Piedmont to San Francisco, he said to himself one day, "The hell with it!", quit his insurance/real estate job, and moved to Carmel. He arrived on June 30, 1905, he was just 35, and he believed there was more to life than 9 to 5. In Carmel he bought a little strip of land near the Mission for $10 (so it might have been $50), erected a tent, set about building a house, walked the beach, smelled the flowers, and wrote poetry! He didn't have a car, a radio, or television — so he created life around him. In no time others came to join him: MARY AUSTIN, JIMMY HARPER, JACK LONDON, SINCLAIR LEWIS, and later UPTON SINCLAIR, all of whom had rejected the Puritan Work Ethic and sought fulfillment from within themselves. They fished, they pried abalone off the rocks, picnicked on the beach, played tennis and baseball, wrote and produced plays, came and went at will, lived undisciplined lives. For some this amounted to a free fall to final frustration. Not one achieved real happiness, though they had a marvelous time not doing it. Is it too late for us?
